

Finegold resigns, Wesson appointed

By Don Staruk

Selectmen accepted the resignation of member Barry Finegold Monday, then turned right around and appointed former member Charles Wesson to sit in his place on the board.

Mr. Wesson will serve for the next four months, until the March 24 town election, when a permanent replacement is elected to finish the last full year of Mr. Finegold's term.

Mr. Wesson served six years on the Finance Committee and 12 years on the Board of Selectmen before he lost his re-election bid to Mr. Finegold in March 1995. Immediately after his swearing in Monday night, Mr. Wesson was appointed secretary to the Board of Selectmen. He then adjourned the meeting.

John Doyle, of 40 Reservation Road, questioned selectmen at the meeting on the process used to select a replacement for Mr. Finegold. Although he said he had no problem with Mr. Wesson being the choice, Mr. Doyle said it appeared the selection was "a done deal" going into the meeting. He questioned whether any discussion selectmen held regarding the appointment should have taken place at an open meeting.

Poetry flows into downtown Andover

By Don Staruk

Most people might see a problem when rocks start talking back to them. Instead, Mark Schorr saw a book.

Mr. Schorr, of 23 Salem St., is a poet. He is just completing his latest self-published book, Songs of Rogers Brook, which contains "the myths and legends of an actual brook that runs through a Massachusetts town as told by the natural and man-made obstacles that lie in its path," according to its jacket cover.

He is also one of more than 30 Andover and North Andover poets and students who will read their poems Sunday, Nov. 24, from 1:30-5:30 p.m. at Old Town Hall. The event is free and refreshments will be served.

The poetry reading is part of the town's 350th anniversary celebration, and is sponsored by the 350th Anniversary Committee.

Townsmen lists early deadlines for Thanksgiving

Next week's Andover Townsman will be printed Tuesday, Nov. 26, because Thursday, Nov. 28, is Thanksgiving Day. The paper will be dated Wednesday, Nov. 27.

There will be early deadlines for the Nov. 27 issue. News and display ads are due tomorrow, Friday, Nov. 22, at noon. And classified ads are due Monday, Nov. 25, at noon.

Questions? Call the Townsman at 475-1943 and ask for either the ad department or the editorial department.

Looking ahead to Christmas and New Year's, advertisers and those who prepare press releases might like to know that there will be early deadlines for those papers, too. Christmas falls on a Wednesday this year, so the Townsman will be printed Tuesday, Dec. 24, but will be dated Thursday, Dec. 26. Ad and news deadlines for that paper will be the previous Friday at noon. New Year's is the same, with the previous Friday deadline.

Cathy Dawson, who is Family and Community Service director for the Andover/North Andover YMCA, reads The Backyard Bear to Kelly Pariseault's third-grade class at West Elementary School Monday. Third-grader Lindsay Belanger points to a page. Ms. Dawson said the story was "wonderful" and the kids really got into it. The community read-along, in the public schools and Pike School, is sponsored by the League of Women Voters and the Andover Townwide PTO, to celebrate American Education Week and Children's Book Week. More than 125 community members volunteered to read in the schools.

New plan for bowling alley

Fourth in a series that will explore the attractiveness and viability of downtown Andover and its business mix. The series will look at the possibility of a parking garage, the retail mix downtown, planning issues and what residents and town officials want from their downtown.

By Don Staruk

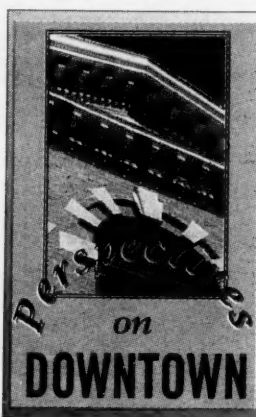

Several projects are in the planning stages for downtown and just outside downtown, not the least of which is a proposal to knock down a portion of the old bowling alley building on Park Street and convert it to retail stores with on-site parking.

There is also a proposal by Bertram Paley, one of the principals involved in the development of Marland Place, to build a Walgreen Drug Store on the former DASA lot, beside Suburban Health Care on Stevens Street. And the former Tyer Rubber Building on Railroad Street is under agreement with a local company that may have plans for both retail stores and offices there.

The bowling alley proposal is simply the top one in a thick file on the property at the town's planning department.

The Cantones: Dominic in Dad's hat, baby Vincent, dad Dave and mom Eileen.

Hats off to the new addition

By Neil Fater

Dave Cantone has grown a thick skin under his uniform, but there's a new person in town who still gets to him every time. It's his newborn son, Vincent.

Mr. Cantone is the man who tickets illegally parked cars downtown. Although he's been threatened and called every name in the book, he says he's learned not to respond to irate motorists.

"I had to carry pepper spray a while back because of one individual," he says. "People want you to react badly to them when they react badly because they want to vent. So you do learn not to react to people."

But Vincent Michael Cantone has been just the ticket to make the ticket-writer react. "I've been in my robe and pajamas at 1:30 in the morning driving him around Main Street. The car is a real sleeping pill," says Mr. Cantone.

Did he write any tickets at that hour?

"No. I didn't see any violations. I didn't see any cars," he says.

Vincent will celebrate his one-month birthday tomorrow, Friday, with brother Dominic, 5, and parents, Eileen and Dave. It took Eileen 20 hours to deliver Vincent, a baby his parents say is the product of a massive two-day storm last January.

"They were saying on the radio that the week Vincent was born there was a record number of births," says Mr. Cantone. Mr. Cantone claims he wants to buy Vincent a black silk boxer's robe with "Vinnie 'The Storm' Cantone" stitched on it.

But Eileen and Dave know at least one thing they don't want to give to their children—their father's job. Although 5-year-old Dominic likes to wear the hat and badge, "We don't think we'll be passing it on," says Eileen Cantone.

"Do I want him to become a meter man? No," says Dave Cantone. "There are too many headaches. You don't satisfy people, people are never satisfied with your performance."

Mr. Cantone, however, does get satisfaction from his home life.

"Having children, having a baby is very addicting," says Mr. Cantone. "All you focus on is this child. All the problems are pushed to the side. It's a very peaceful feeling."

So will "The Storm" rip down the Cantone defenses? Can people expect the ticket-taker to go a little easier on them?

"No. When I'm at work, I'm at work," said Mr. Cantone. "I just hope that my children

NEWS IN BRIEF

Police chief warns shop-owners of scam

By Don Staruk

Andover Police Chief James Johnson is warning local shop-owners this week of an alleged scam in which a group claiming to represent the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association is soliciting $50 donations supposedly to help families of deceased officers.

"It has to be some kind of scam," Chief Johnson said. "The Massachusetts Police Association is not doing any soliciting right now."

The chief did not have the name of the group doing the soliciting readily available, but he said it is based in Florida with a Florida phone number.

"They have nothing to do with the Massachusetts Chiefs of Police Association," the chief said.

The owner of a downtown business called the chief last week to inquire about the group after receiving a call from it, the chief said. The business owner did not give the group money.

The chief said residents and business-owners should feel free to call police to check any group soliciting locally, whether it is for a police or fire group, or any other group.

Topics for discussion will include the successful campaign '96 season, election of new associate members, discussion of upcoming speaker forums and future activities of Democrats in Andover. Everyone is welcome.

Scouts to collect food for area pantries

Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts will collect canned food items Saturday, Nov. 23, to benefit local food pantries and shelters in the council-wide "Scouting for Food" good turn.

Residents are asked to look for the specially marked red-and-white "Scouting for Food" bags that Scouts will have delivered to homes earlier in the week. Instructions ask residents to fill the bags with non-perishable canned food items and leave the donations outside their front doors Saturday, Nov. 23, before 9 a.m. The Scouts will collect the donations, sort, count and organize the food, and deliver it to local food pantries and shelters the very same day. Families who did not receive the bags but who would like to participate in the program can call the Council Office at 1-800-459-0575.

Everyone is eligible to take part in SHARE regardless of age or income. You do not have to be an Andover resident. If you pay $14 per package in cash or food stamps and pledge to do two hours of community service (of your choosing) you can participate.

Anyone wanting to register for a December package who is unable to come Nov. 23 may also register on Monday, Dec. 2, from 9:30-10:30 a.m. in the library at Andover Commons on 30 Railroad St. or Tuesday, Dec. 3, from 7-8 p.m. at Faith Lutheran Church.

Congregation expanding on South Main Street

By Neil Fater

With a new rabbi on board and new construction underway, Andover's Congregation Tifereth Israel is looking not just to build a bridge to the future, but also a link with its past.

The traditional-conservative congregation's construction project will more than triple the size of its sanctuary and give the congregation six full-size classrooms for its religious school. The additional space on South Main Street means the congregation will no longer have to rent space to celebrate weddings, Bar Mitzvahs and High Holiday services.

"I think (the changes) represent both an opportunity for us and a renewal. This was a very active and vibrant synagogue in Lawrence for most of the century," said Alan Greene, congregation president. "It's really a return to what the congregation had been in its vibrancy."

Mr. Greene said the changes are also "a dream" for some of the congregation's oldest members.

Rich Maltzman, one of the congregation's vice presidents, said 85-year-old member Sam Gerstein, for instance, is "waiting with baited breath for the completion of this project."

In 1924, Mr. Gerstein was Bar Mitzvahed in front of the congregation's Ark, the enclosure that keeps the scrolls of the Torah.

Since the congregation began moving to Andover in the early '90s, this Ark has been sitting in storage because the sanctuary is not large enough to hold the 14-foot piece.

The intricately hand-carved Ark will be returned to its rightful place once the expanded sanctuary is complete, said Mr. Maltzman.

The construction makes Congregation Tifereth Israel's building at 501 South Main St. "more of our own place. It makes our own place more functional," he said.

Congregation has its own web site

Mr. Maltzman said the construction will cost "well above $100,000" and the congregation is holding fund-raisers to pay for it.

This past Sunday, Nov. 17, congregation members sold discount coupons at The Mall at Rockingham Park and "semi-professional wrappers" operated a gift-wrapping booth, he said.

"Actually, we've been doing it so long most of us are pretty good at it," said Mr. Maltzman. "Fund-raising's been going well and I know we've got a lot of pledges."

Congregation leaders expressed their thanks to the Andover School of Montessori and to Marland Place assisted living facility for allowing the congregation to use their space for religious classes and services.

Shabbat services will take place Saturdays, 9 a.m., at Marland Place, Stevens Street, until the synagogue is finished.

Congregation leaders say the construction should be finish ed by the end of spring, at the latest.

Old congregation, Andover baby

Although Congregation Tifereth Israel is about 100 years old, it's still a relative newcomer to Andover.

According to Mr. Greene, the congregation was a Lawrence congregation until the beginning of the 1990s when members began a multi-staged move to Andover.

Although the congregation had thrived in Lawrence at one time, as the 1900s wore on, members began leaving Lawrence and the congregation dwindled to 30 families.

Mr. Greene said members decided to move to Andover when they realized they needed a Hebrew School here to renew the congregation. That move appears to have worked. The congregation now has around 80 families, he said.

The congregation made a full-time commitment to Andover in 1993.

Because it sold its city property to another religious group and merged with a small Ayer congregation, it was able to move to Andover and renovate a South Main Street house, said Mr. Greene.

Congregation Tifereth Israel grew 25 percent that first year and its school population doubled, he said.

"We outgrew those renovations almost before they were completed," said Mr. Greene. But Mr. Greene also notes, "The current building program and renovation program is still modest by most (religious group) standards."

The changes still represent an exciting time for the conservative congregation, however, and its leaders are looking to the future.

"Our goal is to provide a comfortable environment for people to worship as people in a traditional conservative synagogue," said Mr. Greene. "The word 'traditional' does not imply male only. Women have a full role in our liturgy."

"We consider ourselves a modern conservative synagogue and congregation. We intend to honor traditional while realizing it's 1996," said Mr. Maltzman. "We do have a web site."

Looks like Finegold outspent Fox, 2 to 1

By Neil Fater

Final reports aren't available yet, but early information from the state's Office of Campaign and Political Finance indicates representative-elect Barry Finegold outspent his opponent James Fox by at least 2 to 1.

Mr. Finegold, a Democrat, defeated Mr. Fox 8,318 to 7,679 for the 17th Essex District seat Nov. 5. Mr. Finegold beat his Republican challenger by 12 votes in Andover.

Although two of the three mandatory campaign finance reports have been filed with the state office, the final report isn't due until Jan. 21, according to Denis Kennedy, director of public information.

The first two reports show Mr. Finegold raised $43,113.75 and spent $39,765.44 between Jan. 1, 1996 and Oct. 18, 1996.

The second report also listed $7,400 in outstanding liabilities.

Mr. Fox raised and spent considerably less. However, because of a state computer program's "software glitch," there were problems with Mr. Fox's first report, and an amended report had to be filed, said Mr.

Kennedy. The ending date on this report overlaps with the starting date on Mr. Fox's second report.

"We have sent (Mr. Fox) a letter asking him to reconcile the two balances and avoid the overlap. But for now, the overlap makes it hard to draw up a grand total for him," said Mr. Kennedy.

While an exact total is not available, Mr. Fox's first two reports do give an indication of how much his campaign spent.

According to the first Fox report, between Sept. 1, 1994 and Sept. 17, 1996, the Fox campaign raised $12,336.07 and spent $9,799.26.

From Aug. 31 until Oct. 18 of 1996, the Fox campaign raised $7,883.15 and spent $9,788.28. It did not report any outstanding liabilities.

During election night, Mr. Fox repeatedly mentioned how his opponent had significantly outspent him. Mr. Finegold said people should remember that he faced a stiff challenge in the primary, while Mr. Fox ran unopposed.

FINANCIAL STRATEGIES

by Ronald R. Hill, CLU, ChFC

YOU CAN TAKE IT WITH YOU

Under new rules outlined by the Treasury Department in September of 1996, the five million American workers who change jobs each year have found it easier to protect their pensions. The changes allow companies to accept a new employee's rolled-over retirement savings without any fear that their pension plans might then push them into violating laws that require firms to balance the contributions of highly paid workers with those in the lower spectrum of the pay scale. Another aspect of the new rules, which applies to all retirement accounts of more than $3,500, prevents employers from limiting the investment options of departing and retiring workers who leave their 401(k) plans or other savings with their old firms. However, the new rules do not compel employers to accept rollovers from new workers. This is not necessarily a bad thing. Oftentimes a more effective long-term strategy for employees is to develop a balance (management as well as the investments themselves) between their 401(k) assets and their IRA and IRA Rollover plans. IRA Rollovers from previous employers can offer you the chance to manage these assets on a more individual level. We help many of our clients in this regard - please give us a call today!

Too many people worry about the ups and downs of the economy instead of the long-term tax benefits of retirement savings. The sooner you start taking advantage of wise tax planning and compound investment returns, the less you will have to adjust your current lifestyle to assure a comfortable retirement. Individuals, families and others donate for holiday lights

More than 150 individuals, families, businesses and groups have made donations in the first two weeks of the campaign to light up the downtown for the holidays, and contributions continue to arrive at the Townsmen office.

Donations have ranged from $3 to $500, with one individual having sent in two crisp $100 bills. Some have donated in memory of a loved one. Others asked to remain anonymous. And in addition to their monetary donations, many have been generous with their expressions of support for the effort.

Several thousand dollars have already been tallied, but more is needed to pay for the lights and installation of cables to supply the electricity. If, in the end, more money is collected than is needed to cover expenses this year, any excess will be put into an account for next year.

Just three weeks ago the Andover Center Association announced it would not have the usual lights along Main Street this year because of problems in recent years with the lighting contractor. Instead, only a handful of trees would be lit in front of Old Town Hall, merchants said.

Many people in town were disappointed by that announcement, including some from a group of business owners and others who have been meeting about once a month for the past year to find ways to improve the downtown. Chip Rogers, Townsmen publisher, and Lori Becker, president of the Andover Center Association, took it on themselves to find a company to hang the lights, and raised some of the money needed to pay for them.

The town is paying $3,000 and the Center Association has committed to pay $2,000. The Townsmen, The Eagle-Tribune and several local banks have also kicked in, but the community's involvement is key to the lights being brought back again next year, according to Ms. Becker.

In addition to the cost of hanging the lights, there is an additional one-time cost for cable work to feed power to them. A total cost of the lighting is not yet available.

How many lights?

Creative Illumination spent two and a half days last week hanging the lights on 39 trees along Main Street, from Elm Square to Punchard Avenue.

They used an average of 30 sets of lights per tree, according to Hank Hockman, owner of the company. Each set is about 32 feet long and carries 35 lamps. That's an average of 1,050 lights per tree, and totals roughly 7 miles of light chord and 41,000 lights, all white.

When will the lights be lit?

The cable work necessary to bring electricity to the lights in the trees is scheduled to begin this week. The lights may be lit by Sunday, Dec. 1, in time to coincide with the Firefighters Holiday Parade and the lighting of the Christmas tree at Brickstone Square. They will definitely be lit by Thursday, Dec. 5, and for the Holiday Open House downtown on Friday, Dec. 6, according to Ms. Becker.

They will remain lit through the first week of January.

Who's donating?

Rosemary Surette, of 83 Chestnut St., made a donation in the name of her late husband, Ted Surette, who died a year ago this past August. Mr. Surette worked for the town from 1960 until his retirement in 1990, the last six or seven years as superintendent of the highway department.

"He loved the town, that's for sure. He was a native. And he loved the lights," Ms. Surette said.

Tom and Stella Koravos, owners of the former Ford's Coffee Shop on Main Street, contributed in the name of Ford's.

William F. Walsh Sr. and his wife, Eileen, their four surviving children and a grandchild donated in the memory of their late son, brother and uncle, Major William F. Walsh Jr., who died just about a year ago. The Walshes have lived in town 37 years.

"We've been here all our lives. We're New Englanders. And we wanted to see the town decorated - plain and simple," the elder Mr. Walsh said.

He said he is hoping for a few snowflakes during the Holiday Open House Dec. 6 to add to the holiday feeling.

The Walsh children are John, Thomas, Peter and Nancy Ann. Granddaughter Kelly Elizabeth, 8 months, is the daughter of Peter and Susan Walsh of Hidden Road.

Curious why the McCoubrey family of Wakefield donated? It turns out Brian McCoubrey is president of The Savings Bank, which is moving into the old Fleet Bank building at 84 Main St. His bank made a separate donation in addition to his own.

Jiffy Lube of Lowell donated, yes,

Nurses, custodians, patch up deals, get new contracts

By Neil Fater

Andover's custodians just picked up new contracts - sort of.

Although the School Committee approved two new one-year contracts for them last Tuesday, custodians are still without a new contract for this year.

The unanimous vote Nov. 12 gave the custodians back-pay raises for the 1994-1995 and the 1995-1996 school years.

For the past two school years, and into the current 1996-1997 year, custodians were working under the old 1993-1994 contract.

Bernie Tuttle, schools business manager, said negotiations for a new contract will start soon.

The new deal gives Andover

Custodian Association members a 2 percent raise for the first half of the 1994-1995 school year and a 1 percent raise on top of that for the second half. Members received an identical raise during the two halves of the 1995-1996 school year. There are approximately 40 custodians in the union. Junior custodians start at $12.14 an hour, and senior custodians start at $14.09, according to the personnel office. Nurses get boost(er), too

The custodians' agreement wasn't the only contract issue mopped up by the committee Nov. 12. Nurses' contracts were bumped up for both next year and the current school year.

A starting nurse's salary is $20,496. Members of the Andover School Nurses Association will receive a 3 percent raise for this year, and a 2½ percent raise for the 1997-1998 year.

Both the custodians' and the nurses' contract votes were 5-0 only because Lloyd Willey suggested the vote should be taken by the whole committee.

David Birnbach, who frequently walks out of the School Committee room during meetings to talk with people, was in the hallway and had to be called back into the room by the cable-TV camera woman.

SENIOR MENUS

DOHERTY STUDENTS CELEBRATE BIOGRAPHY DAY

On Biography Day at Doherty Middle School, Casey Luoma played Iditarod champion musher Susan Butcher, while her friend Katie Seero was former Boston Bruin great Bobby Orr.

Famous people visit Doherty

What annual school event combines learning, fun and a chance to adopt an entirely new identity for the day? It's Biography Day at Doherty Middle School.

Each of the 250 sixth-graders who participated in the Oct. 31 event donned costumes representing the time period, special interests or career of the individual selected. Students prepared for this event by reading a biography of their character.

Parents and fellow students played an active role by interviewing the "famous people" from past and present times to learn more about individual accomplishments and special hobbies.

Biography Day culminated in all sixth-graders delivering oral reports about their famous person. This year's event was a big success, with 175 parents in attendance, according to event organizers.

The school-wide theme at West Elementary this year is "Everyone Grows." Children, like all living creatures, thrive in a healthy environment. The faculty and parents at West want to help children "cultivate their own responsibility for personal growth with love, care, support and understanding." In back are Mallory Jaracz and Mike Gibson; in front are Joey Savoca, Adam Dolan, and Stephanie Feehey.

The student council has adopted the People's Pantry in North Andover as part of their community service work this year. Each month the council organizes a collection of items to take to the pantry. The children take turns delivering them and giving out supplies to the clients. The children collected 913 toothbrushes and tubes of toothpaste in October. From left are Anson Adams, Amanda Chomicz, Elizabeth McPartland and Daniel Harrison.

Each grade will plant in the school's perennial garden as part of the courtyard beautification project. Marjorie Recinos, a fourth-grade teacher, is coordinating their efforts. The kindergarten will make bird feeders; first grade will create an ABC garden; second grade will create a butterfly garden; third grade will work on planting in the spring; and the fourth grade will create a wildflower garden in honor of Andover's 350th birthday. The fifth-grade will create a Peace Garden. With her are Mattie McDermitt, Billy Barden, Ashley King and Brad Murray.

Photos by Lisa Adelsberger

Tim Mauritz, Heather Maloney and Charlene Fielding pose with tissues collected to take to the People's Pantry. Children discovered that when they give their time and energy to those less fortunate, everyone grows.

Each week a different grade level's growth is featured over the public address system. Charles Friel, principal, and Liz Roos, assistant principal at West, visit classrooms to recognize children who have received "Everyone Grows" slips of recognition. Also in the photo are Megan Sebasky, Lindsay Boulanger and Colin Hutzler.

Liz Roos has lunch with children from a different grade level every Thursday, when they share a piece of their life with her and she learns more about them. With her are Heather Sullivan, Kelly McGowan and Brian Shen. (Above right) West is involved with the senior citizen tax voucher program. Don Mulvey has been a participant in this program for two years. He helped out in the third grade and works with small groups of children. Mr. Mulvey is shown working on creating a stuffed-shark mobile as part of an integrated unit from the new language arts program, the social studies curriculum on oceans, and a Great Body Shop Unit about the eye. Danielle Richards, Cameron Ahouse, Emily Cummings, Mr. Mulvey, Chayanne Oviedo and Christopher Browne work in a group to produce "What we see under the sea."

and primary grades, will be performed at Memorial Hall Library this Saturday, Nov. 23 at 2 p.m.

In "Theatre to Do," as presented by Linda Myers of His-

The program is

Sanborn Elementary School is celebrating its 18th annual Harvest Festival. Each year students assemble food baskets of baked goods, tea bundles, fruit, a plant, a bookmark, stationary and cards from the children.

The fifth-grade children will deliver 165 baskets, more than any other year, Friday, Nov. 22, to the seniors at Andover Commons and those who receive Meals on Wheels, and stay for a short visit. All grade levels are involved in the preparation of the baskets, as well as Brownie, Girl Scout and Boy Scout troops.

The project was started 18 years ago by two Sanborn parents originally from England. Delivering food and a visit by schoolchildren to senior citizens during the holiday season is a long-standing tradition in England, organizers said.

The project will conclude with a musical assembly, "Growing Gardens, Growing Minds," Monday, Nov. 25, at 9:30 a.m. with Rabbi Robert Goldstein as

Seasonal celebrations and ceremonies to be observed at Phillips Academy

A celebration of Kwanzaa will be presented by the Phillips Academy music department and community affairs and multicultural development office Saturday, Dec. 7, at 7:30 p.m. in Cochran Chapel next to the Andover Inn on the PA campus. This celebration is open to the public.

Kwanzaa, a celebration of "first fruits" of the harvest, is an

Kwanzaa is a Swahili word for celebration and represents the coming together of family and friends in community to acknowledge their hard work throughout the growing season. The ceremony will feature readings and reflections by members

"You don't look like a lesbian", a guy said to me recently. First off, for the sake of labels, I identify as a bisexual. His comment, though carelessly spoken, made me stop and think. What exactly does a lesbian look like? or a bisexual for that matter? As far as this guy was concerned I simply could not be a lesbian because I didn't fit his image or society's image of what a lesbian should look like. But that's the point. I'm an individual, unique in a lot of different ways. I don't fit a stereotype because I'm a real person. My sexual orientation is just another page in the story that makes up my life.

LOCAL EVENTS

Memorial Hall Library reports that, with the installation of the outside lights to the Elm Square entrance, its Historic Footprints project comes to an end. Users of the library who enter from Main Street now have the pleasure of walking through a garden-like setting with a brick and granite oval patio.

This setting was designed by architect Peter Hornbeck. The final touch was the installation of two spotlights in the trees and a tulip-contoured lantern set on a 10-foot cast-iron ornamental post. Once inside the building, a front vestibule, redesigned by Ann Constantine, has a stenciled reminder of American authors from the period of time Memorial Hall was originally constructed.

This entire project was supported by gifts from contributors, who are acknowledged on the Historic Footprints Plaque inside the front entrance to the library.

Larry Lamagna, a member of Memorial Hall Library's of Board of Trustees, organized the fund-raising effort.

The library is open Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Fridays, 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.; Saturdays, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and Sundays, 2 to 5 p.m. The library closes at 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 27, and all day Thursday, Nov. 28, in celebration of Thanksgiving.

Perry Colmore, Townsmen editor, and Lisa Adelsberger, and Townsmen photographer, will be at the Andover Bookstore at 89R Main St. Sunday, Dec. 15, at 2 p.m. to talk about and sign copies of their new book, Living with Breast Cancer. The book contains stories and photos of 39 women and one man who speak candidly about surviving breast cancer. The photographs will be on exhibit at the Addison Gallery in January.

Hart Leavitt's "Four of Harts" will present a jazz concert Sunday, Nov. 24, at 3 p.m. at Memorial Hall Library. The concert will feature music of the '40s in memory of Celia Kutz, a longtime Andover resident who served in the American Red Cross with the U.S. troops in Italy and Africa during World War II, when this music was popular.

The public is invited to attend this concert given by friends of Ms. Kutz.

Hart Leavitt, a former Phillips Academy faculty member, organized his "Four of Harts" more than 20 years ago. The popular band has brought much pleasure to the jazz scene in this area, organizers said.

The Merrimack College Concert Series will present Handel's Judas Maccabaeus performed by the New England Classical Singers, with director David Tierney, the Pythagorean Festival Orchestra, and soloists Nancy Armstrong, soprano, Gale Fuller, alto, Frank Ragsdale, tenor, and Mark Andrew-Cleveland, bass.

The concert will be held Sunday, Dec. 8, at 2 p.m. in the Merrimack College Chapel, at the intersection of Routes 114 and 125, North Andover. Tickets are $12; $6 for students and seniors; and are available at the Andover Bookstore, 89R Main St. in Andover and Holland's Flower Shoppe, Main Street, North Andover.

For more information, call 688-2816.

The Treble Chorus of New England at Merrimack College and the Merrimack College Concert Choir will present "Christmas at Merrimack," an afternoon of holiday music, Sunday, Dec. 1, at 4 p.m. in the college's Collegiate Church of Christ the Teacher.

The program will celebrate Merrimack College's 50th anniversary and the residency of both music organizations at the college.

Vivaldi's Gloria, Benjamin Britten's A Celebration of Carols and a selection of audience sing-along carols will be included in the concert.

Guest artist include Pythagorean Festival Orchestra, Nancy Armstrong and Gale Fuller.

Marie Stultz is the artistic director of the internationally known Treble Chorus and Merrimack College Concert Choir.

Tickets are $10 ($5 for students) and are available at the door or by calling Maureen Lanigan, managing director of the 50th anniversary committee, at (508) 837-5448.

REJOICING IN SILENCE

Noise is such a constant companion to our modern way of life that many of us scarcely know what it is to experience silence. Those who make the concerted effort required to allow themselves the chance to revel in the absence of sound know what it is like to replenish their inner reserves. Of all the people to whom we grant our attention, none is more deserving than our own selves. As Andre Kostelanetz observed: "We listen too much to the telephone and we listen too little to nature. The wind is one of my sounds. A lonely sound, perhaps, but soothing. Everybody should have his personal sound to listen for - sounds that will make him exhilarated and alive, or quiet and calm... As a matter of fact, one of the greatest sounds of them all - and to me it is a sound - is utter, complete silence."

It's been said that funerals are for the living, and that's certainly true. A funeral is an important event in family life. It gives us a way to honor the life and memory of those dear to us. Today, more and more people are pre-planning funerals because it gives them the opportunity to relieve their families from the financial burden of paying for funeral expenses. It also makes one's wishes and desires known in advance of need. For more information, call BURKE FUNERAL HOME at 475-5200. Located at 390 North Main Street, we are happy to design funeral services that meet your religious or personal preferences.

the meaning of volunteerism and community and learning about the missions of Lazarus House, which include the provision of shelter to the homeless and food to the hungry.

The children in the after-school program will conduct a food drive. They will decorate supermarket food carriages, which will be used as collection points for the food donations. The kindergartners will organize a toy drive and the Leaders Club will focus on a clothing drive, make posters and otherwise publicize the drives at the YMCA facility.

The collection of food, clothing and toys began Nov. 12 at the YMCA's four after-school program sites: at the Y facility, Faith Lutheran Church and in Boxford and North Reading. Y organizers encourage members to contribute coats, sweaters, food and toys at the designated locations. The donations will be transferred to Lazarus House Nov. 23.

"Studies have shown that people who start volunteering when they're young are a lot more likely to donate time and money in adult life," Ms. Hickey said. "Big Help Day is going to help these kids get into the habit of volunteering. Years from now, they'll still be giving back to the community."

Big Help Day was created by the Nickelodeon cable TV network three years ago. Each fall, Nickelodeon broadcasts a full day "help-a-thon" giving young people a chance to call in and pledge hours of volunteer service.

Tax shift likely to remain the same

Some homeowners in Andover will see 20 percent increases in taxes

By Don Staruk

Selectman Bill Downs told town assessor Bill Krajewski Monday that a lot of people who live in his Elm Street neighborhood are sure to be surprised and distressed when they receive tax bills as much as 20 percent higher than last year.

During the public hearing Monday night on the tax classification shift, Mr. Downs said revaluation figures that hike his property value from $176,000 to $223,000 might be wrong, because he's spent much of the last 40 went up in value. The changes range from slight decreases in value to at least that 20 percent increase Mr. Downs was concerned with.

The increase in values means the tax rates will drop, even though the amount of taxes collected will still increase by about 5 percent. With the current tax classification shift, the commercial and industrial tax rate would go from $23.99 per $1,000 of value to about $22.61. The residential rate would go from $16.41 to $15.51. Selectmen will likely split will be about 29.6 percent to 70.4 percent if the shift remains the same this year.

Residents can view their assessments at the assessor's office in town offices, or at Memorial Hall Library. If mistakes are found, there is still time to make changes without having people go through the abatement process, Mr. Krajewski said.

More money facts

The town's total assessment increased this year from $2.8 billion to $3.1 billion, about 11 percent, according to the assessors preliminary figures. Using the 2½ percent increase allowed under Proposition 2½, and the new growth added to the tax rolls as of July 1, the tax levy will likely increase from $50.3 million to $52.8 million, just about 5 percent.

The average value of a house in Andover rose from about $235,500 last year to $260,600 this year.

The average value of a house in Andover rose from about $235,500 last year to $260,600 this year.

years repairing rotting boards just to keep his house from falling down.

But Mr. Krajewski explained that during the property revaluation performed this year, several older neighborhoods like the one where Mr. Downs lives, on Elm Street near the North Andover town line, were found to be undervalued. He said the reason is that areas such as that, where there had been few sales in past years, have seen a lot of turnover more recently. Assessments are based on true market values, he said, and those sale prices are what assessors used to determine the new values.

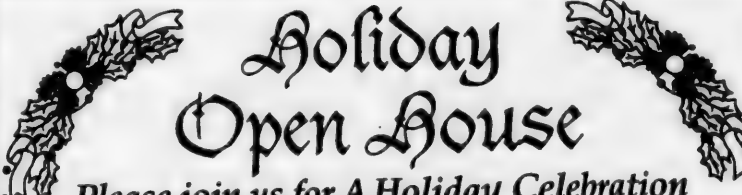

Residential and Commercial and Industrial property values rose an average of 12 percent in the revaluation, Mr. Krajewski said. The greatest increases were in land values, he said. But he said not everyone's property vote the new tax rate at their Dec. 9 meeting.

The town made an out-of-court settlement with Raytheon Company, dropping its property value $19 million, which will cost the town nearly $.5 million in revenues this year. If selectmen keep the tax classification shift the same as last year, at 132.5 percent, residents will pay a slightly increased share of the tax burden, partly due to that settlement, and partly because residential growth represented a slightly larger share of the new growth that hit the tax rolls this year. The shift dropped 2.5 percent last year.

Selectmen indicated by their comments at the meeting they were leaning toward keeping it at 132.5 this year.

Last year C/I paid about 30 percent of the burden, and residential paid 70 percent. That

Downtown: New plan for bowling alley

After nearly 10 years of hearings, appeals and court cases, it appeared last spring that the building would be razed and a new, attractive 13,000-square-foot retail development would take its place. But the proponents of that plan never actually purchased the property, and by June, the property was in new hands.

Aurele Cormier of Andover, and Alvin Maillet and Paul St. Hilaire, both of North Andover, purchased the property under the name of Barnett Realty Trust last summer. Originally the three had only requested that the permits approved last spring be changed to reflect the new ownership. But they later withdrew that request, apparently having had second thoughts about proceeding with that previous plan, according to Stephen Colyer, town planning director. Now Mr. Cormier has apparently pulled out of the project, and his former partners are pushing a plan that would raze just the front of the existing building and convert the remainder into a roughly 10,000-square-foot, single-story retail complex.

The owners, their lawyer, architect and engineers have met with planners to discuss their options, and Mr. Colyer said what they have in mind would comply with parking bylaws. Those bylaws have been the building's Achilles' heel for 10 years.

What is interesting this time around, according to Mr. Colyer, is that the developers want to work out joint access with their neighbors, including the Dohertys, owners of the building housing Learning Express, and the owner of the strip of buildings where the Park Street Pub is located, "Which I think is great," Mr. Colyer said.

For years, planners have recommended coordinating development and use of that property, according to Mr. Colyer. It is also something planners, business owners and others, members of a group who've worked for the last year on ways to keep the downtown vital, have recently encouraged.

Mr. Maillet said this week he is working on the plan described by Mr. Colyer, and that he and his partner are negotiating with neighbors on the access issue. He was not sure when they would be able to present a proposal to the Planning Board.

Tyer Rubber

The rumor that a grocery store may open in the former Tyer Rubber building is just that, according to Mr. Colyer, a rumor.

Mr. Colyer said that at one time he had a request by an interested party about converting the property into a grocery store, but that party has long since gone away.

The building is owned by Scapa Group Inc. of Raleigh, N.C., a holding company. Russell Nauss, of Scapa, said in June Scapa was trying to sell the property, and it appears now the firm may have done that. The Bruk Company, of 23 Main St., owned by Paul Bruk Jr. of Andover, has a purchase and sale agreement to buy the property under the name of Andover Main Street LLC, according to Mr. Colyer.

Rumor has it that the someone is interested in turning the Tyer Rubber building on Railroad Street into a grocery store, but that is just a rumor, according to Stephen Colyer, town planning director.

Paul Bruk III, who works with his father, confirmed this week that they are in control of the property and are considering a number of options for it.

"At this point it's very premature" to talk about any specific plans, he said. But he did say they are looking at a combination of mixed use and retail, possibly with offices on the upper levels and retail on the ground level.

"We're exploring various avenues. We have had a tremendous amount of interest in the property," he said.

He indicated there is a possibility they might have something more to talk about in a matter of weeks or months.

Anything that happens there is going to be tied to installing a traffic signal at the end of Railroad Street, at the intersection with North Main Street, and will have to be able to support those expenses, Mr. Colyer said.

Walgreens

The plan by Mr. Paley to bring a Walgreen Drug Store to the corner of North Main and Stevens streets is not merely a rumor, according to Mr. Colyer.

"They're actually working on this," Mr. Colyer said last week.

A conceptual plan calls for Suburban Health Care to continue to use the roughly 8,000 square feet it currently occupies in the existing building. An additional 5,000 square feet in that building would remain vacant for now. A new 14,000-square-foot building would be built on the North Main Street side of the property to house the Walgreens.

An informal inter-departmental review of the plan was held this past Tuesday with town department heads and the developers. But Mr. Colyer said he has warned Mr. Paley that this proposal will be "a tough sell" due to traffic and flooding concerns.

"Traffic and flooding were the two major topics discussed today," Mr. Colyer said after the review.

Previous proposals for the site have been directed to deal with traffic congestion at the Stevens Street intersection, and on Stevens Street in front of Suburban Health Care and the post office.

A previous plan, which approved an expansion of the Suburban Health Care building, called for an access onto

The so-called bowling alley on Park Street.

North Main Street just north of the Stevens Street intersection. According to that approval, northbound cars would be barred from turning left into the store, and cars pulling onto North Main would only be allowed to make a right turn, southbound.

That area is also in the 100-year flood plain, as was evident during the recent flooding, when water inundated the houses to the north side of the site and submerged a large portion of the lot in question.

"They've got a lot of questions to answer," Mr. Colyer said.

Mr. Paley is moving forward, working on the detailed plans at this point, according to Mr. Colyer.

Poetry flows into downtown Andover

All poets were asked to write something about "myths and legends" of Andover.

The 350th Committee is also publishing a booklet, Landscapes and Legends: Poems for the Andovers, which will contain at least one work from each of those participating in the reading. The booklet will be available at the reading, and in local shops and at the 350th Anniversary Store at Old Town Hall on Main Street. The price, quite appropriately and deliberately, is $3.50.

Mr. Schorr wrote a series of poems for the event, one for each month of the 350th anniversary-year celebration. Several of the poems contain references to people, places or things that will be familiar to many in Andover, including Ford's coffee shop, Elm Square, Paul Monette, Daniel Pinkham, Anne Bradstreet, and the song, America.

Mr. Schorr is also just printing Songs of Roger's Brook. Roger's Brook starts near Holt Hill on Andover's border with North Andover and runs across Holt and Highland roads, through the Phillips Academy sanctuary, across Morton Street and, now underground, through the Park under the stone bridge, across Chestnut, Main, Central, Brook and School streets, Lupine Road, and finally empties into the Shawsheen River.

The Brook, according to Mr. Schorr, is named after the sole surviving native Massasoit resident in Andover, Indian Roger. It is dedicated to Dolores Dunning, a Native American who lives in town.

Songs of Roger's Brook is a series of dialogues between several natural obstacles in the water's path – a stone wall that runs along it, the pond in the sanctuary, the bridge in the Park, a rock, a crow, a hawk and others – as it makes its way through town.

"What I was hoping to do was enter into the spirit of Rogers Brook without speaking for Roger. And I thought the best way to do that was to put myself in the position of the obstacles," Mr. Schorr says.

Mr. Schorr calls his Roger's Brook work "topographical poems," what he describes as being "about the way you are out there in the world."

"A lot of my Andover poetry started in the winter time when I was (cross-country) skiing and I was noticing the way the land fit together," he says.

Mr. Schorr says he writes three kinds of poetry: dialogue, exploration and poems of reflection.

Mr. Schorr graduated from Grinnell College in Iowa with a degree in English, and taught for a dozen years at Milton Academy in Milton. He became a technical writer, working with computer-based typesetting. Now he writes poetry full time. Part of the poetry, he says, is the typesetting and presentation of the work, which he does himself.

"I write morning, noon and night everyday," he says.

He self-publishes all his own works using a personal computer, an ink-jet printer, paper from CVS/Pharmacy, vellum for the cover and a stapler.

"I love to print small editions of my work as close to the way it should be as I can – and let people take it from there," Mr. Schorr says.

He wrote and sold out a book. ("I printed 50 and sold 49," he says.) That book's about Walking Indian Ridge in West Andover for the 75th anniversary of the Andover Village Improvement Society. And he is currently working on Designs for Main Street, which is what he calls "civic poetry" about "civic virtues" and "taking a look around town." Many of his ideas for Designs of Main Street came out of his work on the poems for the 350th reading.

Mr. Schorr has been published in Paris Review "and a few other places."

Songs of Rogers Brook will be available at the Andover Book Store in time for Christmas. Songs and other poems by a variety of authors can also be found on Mr. Schorr's web page, at <http://world.std.com/~bookmark>.

Mr. Schorr, 51, has been in Andover since 1975. He and his wife, Natalie, a French teacher at Phillips Academy, have two children, Sarah, 19, a student at Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn., and Max, a second-year student at PA.

Poetry festival for the 350th is Sunday

By Virginia Lopez Begg
350th Committee

A festival of poetry in celebration of Andover's 350th anniversary will take place Sunday, Nov. 24, from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m. at Old Town Hall on Main Street. The event is open to the public.

"Landscapes and Legends, Poems for the Andovers" will feature Andover and North Andover poets reading works written especially for the anniversary. A booklet of the same title, including a selection of the poems, will be on sale.

The theme of the festival, landscapes and legends of Andover, reflects the traditions or transformations of the town's land and people, as well as their imagined future. The poems have been inspired by experiences that range from a walk along Main Street to an inner dialogue.

The festival, for which poets have been writing all year, will celebrate Andover's poetic tradition from the days of Native Americans into the 21st century, according to Kathleen Aponick, who is co-chairwoman with Helena Minton. The event is sponsored by Andover's 350th Committee.

Poets whose work will be read at the festival include:

Kathleen Aponick, Jill Martin Barker, Mary Chivers, Beverly M. Darling, Agnes D. Devejian, Dale A. Edmands, Lois F. Frankenberger and Michael Frishman.

Also, Jane Gossard, Ellen V. Keith, Nina Lipkin, Julie Martin, Frances McCormick, Jean McVey, Nancy Bailey Miller, Helena Minton, Robert A. Mirisola and Thomas F. Mofford.

Also, Diane M. Pitochelli, Dennis Richards, Lawrence Rungren, Mark Schorr, Ellen Davis Sullivan and Patricia Wells Thornton.

And Deborah Warren, Courtney Weida, Andy Wong and Blair Gracie Woodman.

TOWN TALK

85 and strong

A surprise party was held recently at Hill View Country Club in honor of Margaret McGinley's 85th birthday.

More than 80 relatives and friends from Frye Circle, where she lives attended. Her nephew, William Armstrong of Lexington, owner of the Ambulance Co., and niece, Betty Wyman of Brewster and her husband, hadn't seen Margaret in more than 12 years.

Margaret McGinley

There were relatives from nine states. One of her great-grandsons, Sgt. Peter Knapp, and his wife drove up from New Jersey where he is stationed in the Air Force. There was entertainment from family members. Her son, Wayne, composed music and words to a song that he sang for his mother. The song included the names of all of her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Her daughter, Marilyn, a niece from New Hampshire and a nephew from Maine sang. One of the family songs was put in print, with all the names, which she now hangs on her wall. Margaret McGinley had seven children, four now deceased, 19 grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren (10 girls, five boys) and one great-great-grandson, a baby.

Flying high

Ever since she was a little girl, Laura Lattanzio dreamed of flying. Her father would take her to the airport and explain that girls just don't fly. This didn't stop Ms. Lattanzio from reaching her goal. Two years ago, a close friend, Wendy Germaine, took Ms. Lattanzio on an incredible flight over Cape Cod in her Piper Cherokee 180 plane. The sun melted into the clouds, creating a beautiful splash of colors.

Ms. Lattanzio said, "If she can do this, then I can do it."

Within a month she was enrolled at the East Eagle Aviation at the Lawrence Airport for flight training with instructor Nick Siraco.

"There were many fears that I needed to overcome," Ms. Lattanzio said. "I needed to practice emergency procedures like simulated engine problems. It was scary."

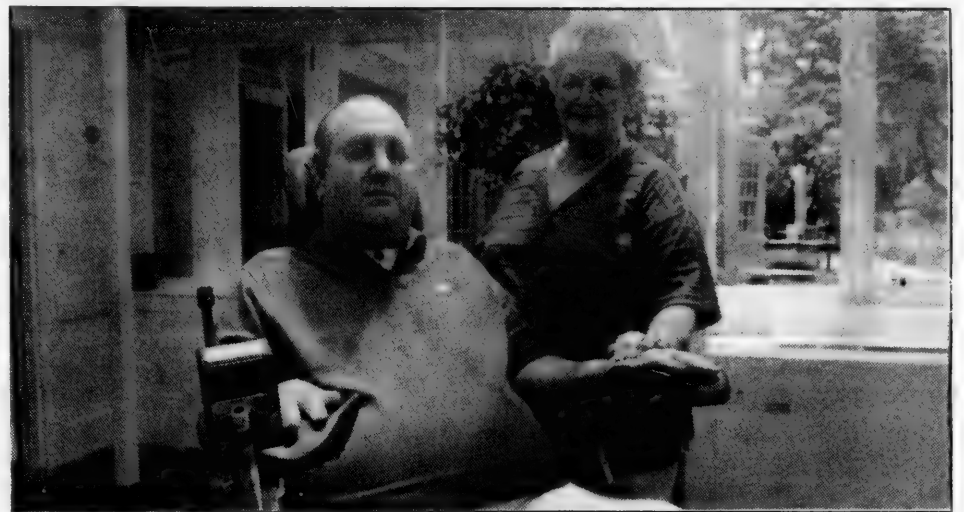

Pilots need to be alert for weather difficulties. There were times when Ms. Lattanzio had to divert to other airports due to dangerous weather conditions. Communicating over the airwaves was also a challenging learning process, she said.

"You constantly need to be on top with air traffic control."

Despite these fears, on Oct. 23, Ms. Lattanzio accomplished her childhood dream.

"You only have a wind of time in your life," she said, "take advantage of every aspect and go for it!"

Flying is not Ms. Lattanzio's only project. For 28 years she has been an active member of South Church on Central Street as the former deacon, church school superintendent and teacher. She serves as an administrative assistant to the Community Bay Charter School in Lawrence. Her three sons, Dale, 32, Scott, 30, and Justin, 23, can't wait to fly with their pilot mother.

Ms. Lattanzio, 53, recently took her husband, Dale, 55, flying with her. She said he loved it and can't wait to fly again. Ms. Lattanzio's next challenge is to fly with Ms. Germaine to Lakeland, Fla., in April for the "National Fly In."

Super speaker

Gene Doran of Holt Road, Andover's own "Superman," was the guest speaker at the Lawrence General Hospital Auxiliary Membership Tea at Heritage State Park in Lawrence Thursday, Nov. 7.

Nancy Jones of Andover, president of the board, welcomed the 50-plus members and guests and turned the program over to Marlene Bernardin of Lovejoy Road, chairperson and long time friend of Mr. Doran. Ms. Bernardin is shown in the photo introducing Gene Doran.

Mr. Doran spoke about the well known circumstances of his tragic accident some 10 years ago, and pointed out the many things that make his life rich and fulfilling, in large part due to the dedication of his family, nursing staff and friends. He was accidentally hit in the neck by a nail gun, rendering him a quadriplegic.

The Lawrence General Ladies Auxiliary is a nonprofit organization designed to provide support services and fund-raising activities for the hospital. Anyone interested in joining can call Mary O'Brien at the volunteer office at 683-4000.

Landscapes and Legends: Poems for the Andovers

Here are some of the poems that appear in Andover's 350th poetry volume: Landscapes and Legends, Poems for the Andovers.

About Departures

Mary Chivers

I would say this for the leaves:
That they comfort me,
And though my heart is heavy,
Such light in pools of color below,
Such light in shimmering color above,
Such a soft richness of quiet turning
Lifts and blesses my eyes
That I might turn like them
Upon a pliant stem
Until the clean break at the neat crescent place,
The edge designed for letting go,
Sets me free to drift,
A bright gash against the dark air.
And seeing grey limbs appear,
Tree by tree like naked bones
Drying in the lingering sun,
I too feel the downward pull of the sap
Hidden and waiting to transform.

Their Mother

Julie Martin

All the pots are boiling over, and ants are eating away the kitchen floorboards.
The children are talking, talking,
why won't they stop, just for a minute?
I love the smell of their skin, their hair, it is kin, it is dear, but their fingerprints lay thick all over me.
I stand before them, not one private kernel left alive inside me.
I want to hide deep in the house.
I want my own skin back, my own silent space, my own anything.
I am evaporating, but they do not see because my body goes on,
lifting the pot covers one by one,
while the ants below advance, mouths
full.

Roots

Lawrence Rungren

I imagine them fanning out through the dirt
wide as a river delta, flooding the tunnels of the rabbit and mole, snaring bottlecaps
and small stones in their wake.
I picture them vining around shells of insects,
around the feathers of birds and the
bones of the dead,
holding the small clods of dirt tight to themselves
as if they were the buds of some exotic
flower.
I think of their fine cilia
reaching into the darkness,
the cold rainwater pulsing
through their knobby intersections like blood being carried back to the heart.
I dream of a taproot boring into the black humus,
piercing the silt and loam, pushing

down

through the brown gravel like a snake, blindly searching for something more felt than named.

Awakening

Courtney Weida

As the tired sun greets the sleeping bodies,
it provides little warmth to pull them out of their quilted shelters.
Only the glass eyes of stuffed toys,
nestled against the children's peaceful faces, see the frosted sunshine.
Now, the children, wide awake when stars and moon
shone brightly at the peak of night, must bear
the weight of unfinished rest
on their drooping eyelids.

Let the debate begin

Finally, a real selectman's race, one in which undoubtedly the community will hear the issues debated at length.

Three seats will be available come the April elections. Selectmen Chairman James Barenboim has announced he won't run. Selectman Larry Larsen is running, and Selectman Barry Finegold resigned his seat this week, having been elected state representative and therefore needing to turn his attention to that job.

Monday, the selectmen made a wise 4-0 decision in appointing former Selectman Charles Wesson to fill in as selectman for the remaining four months until the election. The town charter says in the event of a resignation on the Board of Selectmen, the selectmen can hold an election to fill the spot, or selectmen can appoint a person to temporarily fill the seat.

The selectmen are moving into their most difficult time of year. From now until spring town meeting, they talk money and budgets, and assess town needs and priorities. Mr. Wesson has been a selectman and he's familiar with the process. It would be expensive to hold an election for the one seat, and a new selectman would still be learning the ropes during budget talks.

In addition, Mr. Wesson has said he is not interested in running for the seat in the spring election, and that's the way it should be. He would have an unfair advantage being appointed to the four-month position if he were running for the seat.

Now there will be three seats available at the April election: a three-year term being vacated by Mr. Barenboim, a three-year term that currently is Dr. Larsen's seat (it would be his third three-year term if re-elected), and a one-year term, the remainder of Mr. Finegold's time.

That should pull some candidates out of the woods. And when numerous people campaign in an election, the community begins to focus on the issues. That's healthy.

Let the debate begin!

Differences between men and women

By Perry Colmore

Did you know that men have an FIX1 gene, and women have an FLD2 gene?

It's something I've discovered over several years, and I thought I'd share the news with you.

Man's FIX1 gene is the fixing gene. It's what kicks in for men when the coffee pot breaks and the woman's saying she's going out to buy a new coffee pot and he's saying, "Hold on here. I'll take it to the basement and find out how it works. I can probably fix it."

Woman's FLD2 gene is the folding gene. Have you noticed that a woman can fold a shirt in mid-air? She holds it up by the shoulders, shakes it just so, makes some tucks and does some fancy maneuvering and, voila, there it is: a shirt that's perfectly folded.

The difference in these two genes is a little like the difference in the way men and women speak. What do I mean by that? Let's try a few examples.

Woman: "Do you love me as much as the cat?"

Translation: "You haven't told me lately that you love me."

Woman: "This house is a mess. I hate it here. We should move."

Translation: "Let's take half an hour and straighten up. Will you help me?"

And conversely:

(And I won't use quotes here because the man doesn't talk.)

Man: Sitting in front of television on a Saturday, watching football.

Translation: "This is my alone time. I need space."

Man: In the basement longer than an hour, rearranging his tools, radio blaring some sports event.

Translation: "I need to re-fuel. I need to think. I have to be alone for a period of time. I'm not getting away from you, my dear. I just need more time alone than you."

Now of course these are generalizations, and some of it depends on your Myers-Briggs profile. That's all about introverts and extroverts. To risk making a large generalization, there are more male introverts than female, and more female extroverts than male extroverts. However, there are, of course, women introverts and men extroverts. I, for example, am a "mild" introvert. I used to be an extrovert, but I've grown older and wiser and now I dare to take the space I need for myself. I don't always have to be touching base with everyone with whom I come into contact. I value my time alone.

Here are some other man-woman differences.

Asking for directions: Men: not; women: do it.

List making: Women make them and feel better; men don't and get frantic when they face a day of too many things to do. If they make a list, men feel worse, not better.

Chore-doing: Both men and women avoid the worst chore on their list when they know they should first do the one they've been avoiding and get it out of the way.

Trust: Women go by feelings; men need facts. For example, a panel convened by the National Academy of Sciences has concluded that "the current body of evidence does not show that exposure to (power lines/electromagnetic fields) presents a human health hazard." I am still not convinced; my husband is.

Clutter: Men don't see it. Women see only it.

Dirt: Ditto clutter.

Driving a car: Men don't want anyone in front of them; women tend not to care — until they get behind the wheel of a sports car.

Corresponding: Men don't. Women do.

Mentoring kids in sports: When a girl strikes out, the women at the site say, "Good try. You'll get a hit soon." When a boy strikes out, the men say, "You should have stepped closer to the plate, Johnny. If you'd listened to me, you'd have gotten a hit."

Illness: Women tend to let it out, talk about it, ask for support and

We need land for a new senior center

Editor, Townsmen:

I would like to make a serious appeal to the Andover townspeople. Although I am treasurer of the Friends of the Andover Senior Center, I want to talk as a neighbor with a problem.

I was born and brought up near the Shawsheen School, surrounded by acres of woods in which to roam and loads of space in which to play. Over the years Andover has grown to the point where space is now at a premium.

The present Senior Center, which services the almost 5,000 older citizens of Andover, is very inadequate. There is a foyer, office space and two large rooms. One room is used as a dining room, and for exercise and dancing classes. The other room is used as a social day care, a place where frailer elders may meet to socialize with their peers, and in some cases to give their caregivers time to work or rest. There is not even a place where people can come in and sit and talk together comfortably.

There is a third large room that can be broken up into three small areas by sliding walls. This room was assigned to the various veteran groups for their use, by the town. The veterans have graciously allowed the center to use this space weekdays for classes and activities.

For the past few years the seniors have been making plans to build a new center. Now we are ready to aggressively begin the processes and fundraising necessary to make a new center a reality.

Because the town does not have any land for this effort, we must raise money and locate a site to buy. And we come to the problem of the site.

We are having a hard time finding land, and as a neighbor I am asking for your support. We have looked throughout the town for a spot, but the few places we uncovered have been quickly bought up for cash by developers. We are at a disadvantage.

Three acres or so are needed for a building and parking. It must be within a three-mile radius of town if possible — the closer the better for obvious reasons, on a street equipped to support an additional volume of traffic during day time hours (8-4), with a drainage system compatible for a large hot-topped parking area, and capable of passing toxicity codes.

We desperately need your help. If you have land that fits this criteria or know someone who has, please consider our plight. Developing such a site would only benefit a few families, while the use of a new Senior Center would enrich thousands of lives. If you are holding such a property for the future, the future is now. Not only will the present older community enjoy the center, it will be there for future generations, and the whole town will benefit from the services and activities planned for the expanded space.

Please help us. The Friends of the Andover Senior Center group is responsible for raising the money to undertake this effort and purchasing the land. Please contact the Friends with your suggestions and support at 470-2333 or 475-0287. Thank you.

Andover High School's under-used Collins Center

Editor, Townsmen:

Much has been written about the ongoing AHS building project, and many of us have expressed our frustrations. My focus is the Collins Center. Andover has a state-of-the-art theater facility in its town, which for years has been mismanaged and under-used. But at least it has remained as the Andover High School auditorium.

It has been the "playing field," if you will, for many talented musicians, actors and technical theater students. Wonderful productions have been staged there that not only spotlighted the actors and musicians, but set designers and builders, sound and lighting technicians, stage managers and crew, most of whom were students.

As the parent of a senior at AHS who has been involved in the arts since the sixth grade, it infuriates me that for his last year in Andover, he will miss this last opportunity to perform on the Collins Center stage.

The members of the chorus, concert band, jazz band and all-town orchestra are also being deprived of performing there. And for the seniors with a serious interest in these areas, this is a real tragedy.

Last March the Collins Center was closed, not because the facility was unuseable, but because it became inaccessible. My point is there is no new construction in the Collins Center. It is just being used as a warehouse to accommodate the rest of the building project.

I realize that AHS will eventually get back the use of the Collins Center, although the recent publicity has me worried about just when that will be. In the meantime, the cast members of the up-coming play, The Diary Of Anne Frank, are hoping their audience will follow them to the South Lawrence East School for their performance on Dec. 6 and 7. And the next challenge may be to find yet another facility which will be able to accommodate the much larger spring musical.

In the meantime, I would like the High School administration, the School Committee, the building committee and any interested Andover citizens to simply acknowledge the talented young people we have in our community, and recognize that this is yet another very unfortunate ramification of the AHS building project. With better planning and more concern for all the students and their activities instead of contractors and architects, a lot of these problems could have been avoided.

The loss of the Collins Center, and the lack of support shown to those students and faculty affected by it, is another tragic result of this totally mismanaged project.

Democrats rejoice

Editor, Townsmen:

Andover Democrats, rejoice. Our candidates fared well on Nov. 5, especially when the demographics are put into perspective.

Here in Andover, the Democrat voters represent only 5,300 out of a total of about 19,000 voters (the largest contingent being the Independent, unenrolled voters). Even given these numbers, 40 percent of all Andover votes cast contributed to Sen. John Kerry's victory in Massachusetts. Barry Finegold was the resounding winner in the state representative race, garnering a total of 8,262 votes in the district. In the current election, despite our minority position, Democratic candidates representing Andover won every office.

I thank my fellow Democrats who worked so hard on the coordinated campaign in Andover, led by the Andover Democratic Town Committee. Your unprecedented efforts included everything from staffing the Democratic headquarters to recruiting your family and friends to make a difference. I thank those Republicans and Independents who campaigned and voted Democratic. It takes a village to raise the standard.

Consolations go to those who lost. We heartily congratulate the victors. Thanks for helping us get out our message of hope. See you on the bridge to the 21st century.

Community volunteers for the Feaster Five road race

By Catherine Cannon

Each year the Thanksgiving Day Feaster Five road race is hosted by the Merrimack Valley Striders running club. The race is expected to draw between 6,000 and 7,000 runners and walkers. Most of the club members will be working the race. But many more volunteers are required and needed to make the Feaster Five possible, according to organizers.

Youth groups will be busy all day running the three water stations, distributing pies, recording finishers, helping with registration and many other tasks.

According to Feaster Five coordinator Bill Pennington, throughout the day "We need over 400 volunteers and over 500 through the week. The Feaster Five would never be able to occur without the help of our youth."

Roughly 75 percent of this year's volunteers are under the age of 20.

This is the second year Sheila Stone, of the Ballardvale United Church, has been a prominent fund raiser for the event. The church's youth group consists of both middle-school and high-school students who will distribute apple pies. Ms. Stone's husband, Allen, the youth group leader, the pastor and a student intern will serve as the head supervisors for the event.

"Many runners or participants will give back the pies as a donation to the Lazarus House," said Ms. Stone.

Jackie Grahm is the coordinator of Saint Augustine's youth group, Genesis. Both the high school youth group (Genesis) and the parish's newest edition, which consists of middle-school students, will be offering their assistance with the Feaster. Volunteers will take care of three water stations during the race. An informal team, including Ms. Grahm, has been created by Genesis. They will run or walk the race. The team members are sponsored and all of their collections will be donated to Lazarus House.

"It is nice that the team is not only volunteering their time, but are also participating in the race as well," said Ms. Grahm.

Michael Gaherty, a junior at Andover High School, will be announcing the finish of the race on ESPN.

help, worry out loud. They also seek reasons, such as, What did I eat, maybe it's lack of exercise, and so on. Men keep it in if they're afraid it's major, aren't apt to share their fears. They tend to tough it out. If it's something smaller, like a cold, they can be whiners.

Well, you get it. Men and women have different genes. She probably should fold the laundry and ask for directions to locations, and he should take the coffee pot to the basement and be left to work in his space. Who knows, he may even fix the coffee pot while he's there. And she probably will have the laundry folded by the time he shows up.

HANDS ON TRAINING FOR TOMORROW!

DANNY is learning to splice wires in our Electrical Program ...

Celebrating Over 30 Years of Excellence

Danny

At Greater Lawrence Technical School students are provided with technical training in a field of their choice. The future always looks bright for our graduates because they enter the work force with the hands-on training required by employers. Many students participate in Co-Op programs where they earn money working in an entry level job while learning academic material and classwork on the other week.

We are proud to say that over the past thirty years, the majority of our graduates have gone into their field of choice right after graduation. Others have continued their training in college.

Charles F. McQuade, D.M.D.

After practicing dentistry for 10 years as an associate in the Cambridge and Boston area, Dr. Charles F. McQuade has opened his own comprehensive family dental practice in a new state-of-the-arts office in downtown Andover in the Barnard Building. Using the latest dental techniques and materials with strict sterilization procedures, he is committed to preventative care to help patients keep all their teeth all their lives.

"It's an exciting time to be a dentist and look at the evolution of materials and techniques since I started dental school," he said. "The options are truly amazing for patients."

The most current dental adhesives, for example, allow dentists to be more conservative and prolong the life of restorations, Dr. McQuade explained. Bleaching is a non-invasive technique that does not require any drilling but can greatly improve ones appearance. There are procedures to treat gum and root problems that just a few years ago would have meant lost teeth. And for those who did not grow in the era of preventative care and have lost teeth, there are now implants available.

Unlike dentures or partial dentures, implants enable people to chew more efficiently and thus with better nutrition improve their overall health.

Dr. McQuade received his dental training at Boston University and also trained at Tufts University in treatment of temporo-mandibular - facial pain problems, and where he conducted research and was a member of the faculty. He has also done research in implantology and has had implant training with the Boston Seminars in Implant Dentistry, where he also continues to teach. In addition, he has expertise in cosmetics and treating gum disease. He has the added credential of being a fellow of the Academy of General Dentistry.

Dr. McQuade said he opened his practice in Andover because he likes the small-town feel here with its close proximity to Boston. Those interested in setting up a dental appointment may call Dr. McQuade at 470-8855.

because owner John Gbur thought it was good business, but he and his wife, Anne Lauriat, also live here. As it turns out, she had also made a donation from a separate account.

Nancy and Meredith Price, of 22 Hidden Field Road, gave in memory of their son-in-law, Dr. Paul McCord, who died recently in Alaska.

The Jacobs family, of 29 West Parish Drive, Robert, Katherine and son Andrew, made a donation because, "I love Christmas lights," says Ms. Jacobs.

"It's just amazing," Ms. Becker said of the response to the lighting campaign. She said she grew up in town and that she assumed she would know most of the names of those donating, but after logging the checks, she said that is not the case.

"This is community at its best," said Selectman Larry Larsen, who was headed over to make his own donation to the fund Tuesday night. "It's something you don't have to do. It's something everyone wants to do."

"And it's something based on need," Dr. Larsen said. "It's sort of like Andover's version of a barn raising. And without it, you wouldn't have had it. It's great. I'm proud of it."

How to donate

The Townsmen each week is running a graphic of a Christmas tree with light bulbs, and each week more bulbs will be lit, corresponding to the donations received. The goal is to have the entire tree lit by Dec. 5.

Beside the tree will be the names of all those who make a donation of any size.

Donors just fill out the form on the same page, send it to the Townsmen with a check and the names of the person or persons making the donation, and those names will be added to the list.

Checks should be made out to the Andover Center Association/Holiday Lights, and mailed to or dropped off at the Andover Townsman, 33 Chestnut St., Andover, Mass. 01810.

Also, anyone who makes any size donation will automatically be entered in the Center Association's Holiday Lights raffle. Raffle tickets are also available for $1 each, or $5 for six.

Holiday raffle prizes totaling more than $3,500 include at least 20 gift certificates for up to $50 from local stores, checks and savings bonds from local banks, and more than 20 other prizes of merchandise or services.

Raffle tickets are available downtown at Addison Travel, Andover Photo, Butler's Pantry, Chocolate by Design, Daher's Shoes, Daher's for Kids, Earth Food Store, Mom & Me Maternity, Royal Jewelers, Strawberry Tree, Underground Music, Michelle's Boutique, Victorian Treats and Quiet Pleasures.

Raffle winners will be drawn during the Andover Center Association's Holiday Open House, Friday, Dec. 6.

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

PROBING ANSWERS

Fairly recently, the American Dental Association and the American Academy of Periodontology standardized a screening test for gum disease called "periodontal screening and recording" (PSR). It involves the insertion of a thin, metal probe under the gumline around each tooth until the tool meets resistance. The depth of the pocket is then measured and assigned a code number. These numbers are then averaged to give the patient an overall score, ranging from zero (healthy) to four (advanced gum disease). It is hoped that Americans will come to know their PSR scores much in the same way that they now know their cholesterol and blood pressure numbers. In addition, another recent diagnostic improvement makes use of DNA testing to identify the genetic makeup of the bacteria causing a patient's gum disease, permitting the dentist to select an appropriate antibiotic.

Modern dental techniques are the result of years of research by professionals dedicated to making dental care effective, efficient, long-lasting, and as painless as possible. What does it take to have a sunny smile? Start with good home oral hygiene and regular professional checkups with at 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 93. For a convenient appointment for friendly family dental care, please call 475-2431.

P.S. A new technique for fighting gum disease involves placing a string impregnated with an antibiotic under the gumline around the tooth for ten days to kill off gingivitis-inducing bacteria.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

HELP FOR CHRONIC BACK PAIN

While numerous studies have clearly established the effectiveness of chiropractic manipulation for relieving acute low back pain, the evidence had been lacking with respect to its effect on chronic back pain until recently. Then, an elaborate random study conducted by John J. Triano came to the conclusion that two weeks of spinal manipulation provides significant benefits for patients with long-standing low back pain. The study was of 209 patients with chronic mechanical low back pain of greater than seven weeks duration (the definition of chronic pain used by the Quebec Task Force on Spinal Disorders). Those who were treated to an average of 10.5 sessions of treatment with high velocity, low amplitude spinal manipulation experienced "higher return to function and a trend for significantly reduced pain." In very simple terms, the study's author concludes that manipulation is worth a try for patients with chronic back pain.

Are you suffering from back pain? Maybe it's time you give chiropractic a try. At DeLORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, we provide safe and gentle chiropractic care for the entire family. Covering up symptoms with medication ignores the underlying cause and delays the healing process. Call 475-5042 to schedule an appointment and let us help you feel better the natural way - the chiropractic way. We're located at 25 Central Street.

P.S. Some of the patients in the above-mentioned study improved after one or two treatments, while others improved after five or six. On average, 10.5 visits were required.

Psoriasis Network Group meets in the Andover area; first meeting is Dec. 4

A Psoriasis Network Group is now meeting in the Andover area, the National Psoriasis Foundation (NPF) announced.

NPF member Patricia V. Wood, of Andover, is the leader of the local volunteer support group, which provides people with psoriasis an opportunity to attend educational meetings, hold support group functions and pursue community awareness projects.

The group's first meeting will be held Wednesday, Dec. 4, at 7 p.m. in the Heritage at North Andover.

For further information, call Ms. Wood at 475-2774.

For more information on psoriasis, call the NPF at 1-800-723-9166.

Psoriasis is a noncontagious, chronic skin disorder affecting 6.4 million individuals in the United States.

Physically, the disorder can range in severity from mild to disabling. Emotionally, psoriasis can be devastating.

"The primary reason for starting this group is to offer people who have psoriasis and psoriatic arthritis the opportunity to meet and learn more about their conditions," said Ms. Wood. "This group will not only promote psoriasis awareness in the community, but will act as a vital link between people who suffer from either condition."

Friends support center

The Friends of the Andover Senior Center, a non-profit group raising money to buy land and build a new senior center, has fund-raising headquarters at 24 Park St. Activities such as the Senior 1000 Club, Friends' Gift Shop, and other fund-raising programs will be held there.

The Andover Education Association, which is the teachers' union, made a donation this week to the Friends of the Andover Senior Center and the Council on Aging in honor of American Education Week. On hand for the check-passing are, front, from left, Arlene Santangelo, Friends of Andover; Doreen Correnti, Senior Center; Oscar Rosenberg, Kerry Costello; back row, Rita Carrier, Council on Aging, Dorothy Bresnahan and Martin Epstein.

Teachers make donation to senior citizens

The Andover Education Association traditionally celebrates American Education Week by donating to a civic group in the community. This year's targeted organizations are the Friends of the Andover Senior Center and the Council on Aging.

According to AEA vice president Kerry Costello, this year's theme lends itself well to the 1996 choice, "The Future Begins in Today's Schools," because the past foundation was built by the contributions of senior citizens.

"They have bequeathed to this generation of young people in Andover, the opportunity to be prepared to meet the demands of the 21st century," said Ms. Costello. "Each generation helps the next to realize its future goals and vision."

This vision extends to the mission of the Friends of the Andover Senior Center. This non-profit, tax-exempt group is dedicated to expanding services for Andover's 4,000-plus seniors. The goal is the construction of a free-standing center.

Yearly membership with the Friends is available at levels beginning at $5. For more information, contact the president, Doreen Correnti, at 24 Park St. (475-9307).

The Council on Aging can also accept contributions that apply after the building is completed. All donations are earmarked by the town for that purpose.

Tom Meyers, AEA president, commented that the Andover Education Association is pleased to join the ranks of benefactor to the Friends for 1996.

"The future does begin today in our public schools and for our seniors. It is our sincere hope that the future of the Andover Senior Center is bright with promise and soon a reality," said Mr. Meyers.

Ryan Games scored a career single-game high four touchdowns, and Brian Tisbert made the key hit on a potential game-tying two-point conversion rush in the final minute of play, as the rampaging Andover High football team stretched its win streak to three games with a wild 35-33 non-league victory over North Andover at frigid Alvah G. Hayes Stadium last Friday night.

The exciting, action-filled triumph boosted first-year head coach Ken Maglio's team to 4-5 overall, and kept alive the possibility of a .500 season for a Golden Warriors' team that started the campaign by winning only one of its first six games.

The loss dropped the previously-undefeated Scarlet Knights, already assured at least a tie for the Cape Ann League title and a berth in the Eastern Mass. Division 4-A Super Bowl on Dec. 7, to 9-1.

It also marked the seventh straight win for Andover over North Andover since their series resumed in 1987. Overall the locals hold a 7-1 edge.

This is the third straight game, and fourth this season, in which Andover scored over 30 points. All coming after the Golden Warriors went five games and 22 quarters with only 20 points.

The sizzling shootout, played in sub-freezing temperatures, featured a fourth-quarter point blitz and four lead changes.

After falling behind 7-0, Andover rallied for a 14-7 halftime lead and threatened for more before North Andover netted a pair of third-quarter touchdowns for a 21-14 advantage.

Andover tied it 21-21 and was still clinging to a slender 28-27 advantage in the closing minutes.

A Jack Glazebrook pass interception and return to the Scarlet Knights' 10 yard line set up what proved to be the winning touchdown, as AHS increased its edge to 35-27 with less than two minutes remaining.

An athletic open-field tackle of NA quarterback Alex Tarr (12 carries, 171 yards) by Tisbert at the Andover 38 yard line, with 62 seconds left, appeared to save the victory.

But the home team pounded the ball down to the five, and following an eight-yard loss Tarr hit Pat Sheehan with a 13-yard TD pass to trim the deficit to 35-33.

North Andover could have sent the game into overtime with a two-point conversion, but free safety Tisbert broke through and nailed Sheehan with a solid stick at the two yard line on the attempted rush.

The Scarlet Knights' last gasp was an onside kick, but the ball did not travel the necessary 10 yards. Andover took over and ran out the clock.

Games breaks loose

After an early exchange of punts, Tarr gave North Andover a 7-0 lead with a two-yard TD run and PAT kick at 8:08 of the first quarter.

Games, who rushed for 123 yards in this game to hike his season total close to 750 yards, countered with a pair of second-quarter touchdowns on 12 and eight yard runs.

Tisbert, 5-for-5 in conversion kicks for the night and now 14-for-15 this season, split the uprights after both Games' TDs as the Golden Warriors took a 14-7 lead into the warmth of the locker room at halftime.

The fun, however, had only begun.

Tarr retaliated with a 64 yard touchdown sprint early in the second half, but when his kick sailed wide the locals still clung to a 14-13 lead.

Sheehan's 24 yard TD scamper late in the third period, followed by Tarr's conversion rush, temporarily put the Scarlet Knights back on top, 21-14.

The frenetic fourth period, which saw the rivals combine to score 33 points in just over five minutes, opened with a 32 yard TD run by Games. Tisbert's kick knotted it 21-21.

With the biting cold and the slippery field making it harder and harder for defenders to tackle or make cuts against ballcarriers, the score continued to escalate when Tarr raced 58 yards around right end for the go-ahead score and a 27-21 North Andover advantage with less than four minutes remaining.

Games deflated the Scarlet Knights immediately by returning the ensuing kickoff 79 yards straight up the middle for his fourth TD of the night, and Tisbert added the conversion for a 28-27 edge.

Glazebrook's timely interception near midfield, which he returned 43 yards, was followed by a 14-yard Tisbert run for what appeared to be an insurance touchdown with less than two minutes remaining.

But the home team counter-punched with the TD pass from Tarr to Sheehan just 32 seconds from the final whistle, setting up Tisbert's all-important stuff of the conversion attempt by Sheehan on an option pitch.

Tisbert nears 200

Tisbert, who rushed for 117 yards on 15 carries and hit 3-of-5 passes for 42 yards, lifted his season point total to 67 with eight touchdowns, 14 PAT kicks, one conversion rush and one field goal.

The 67 points are the most by an Andover player since Steve Shepard scored 86 in 1992, and it's the fifth highest total for a Golden Warrior since 1980. John Perry had 84 points in 1987, Dave Tucker 84 in 1989 and Brett Hammond 70 in 1990.

Tisbert, who also had 60 points last year, now boasts 187 career points in four seasons and needs 13 on Thanksgiving morning to reach the rarely-achieved 200-point plateau.

Games has nine touchdowns for 54 points.

the night with 12 first downs, while North Andover had slim edges in yards rushing (271-257), yards passing (91-42) and total yards from scrimmage (362-299).

Considering the freezing weather, the fact that each team only committed one turnover was impressive. Andover lost one fumble and Glazebrook intercepted a Tarr pass.

Andover has now scored 154 points and allowed 154 points in nine games.

Central on Thanksgiving

The resurgent Golden Warriors will wrap up the 1996 season a week from today when they host an equally up-and-down Central Catholic team on Thanksgiving morning at Lovely Field.

Kickoff is scheduled for 10 a.m.

Andover will be out to break a five-game losing streak against the Raiders, who have also won eight of the last nine and 11 of the last 14 on Turkey Day.

Central, which opened the season with an impressive 25-13 victory over perennial Eastern Mass. Division 1 Super Bowl qualifier New Bedford, is 6-4 overall and riding a three-game win streak.

The Raiders out-slugged Dracut 46-36 last weekend, and prior to that posted back-to-back victories over Lowell (22-7) and Chelmsford (21-7).

Nelson Ovalles and Jason Belkus scored three touchdowns apiece against Dracut.

Ovalles leads CCHS with 56 points and over 500 yards rushing, while wide receiver/kick returner Brian Wozniak has run back two kickoffs for touch-

'Finneran Era' to close out on Nov. 28

By Rick Harrison

The amazing "Finneran Era" will come to a close next Thursday morning when the Central Catholic football team plays Andover in the traditional Thanksgiving morning season finale at Lovely Field.

For the past 15 years Tom and Maureen Finneran of Andover have watched each of their six sons step on the field for the Raiders to play against their home town team, nose to nose against many of the same neighbors and friends with whom they started their gridiron careers in the Andover Junior Football League.

"It's just not going to be the same without a Finneran on the team," admitted longtime CCHS head coach Mike Cassano. "It's been quite a tradition at Central. Each one of the brothers has been an outstanding player."

It started with Tom Finneran and continued through the years with Rob, Sean, Brendan, Ned and Neil.

All were big, physical and outstanding two-way players, primarily in the line, for Central and all continued on to successful collegiate careers.

Tom and Rob were members of NCAA Division III championship teams at Ithaca College, Sean graduated from the University of New Hampshire last spring with a Yankee Conference title in his resume, Brendan will graduate next spring from Brown University in Providence, R.I. whose Bruins came within a whisker of winning the Ivy League championship last week, and Ned will attend UNH beginning in January.

Neil is currently being recruited by many of the top Ivy League and Yankee Conference schools.

Obviously, in addition to brawn, the Finneran "boys" are also academically sharp.

Neil has caught two touchdown passes this season while playing tight end on offense for the Raiders (6-4 record). On defense he splits time between linebacker and end, ranking among the team's top tacklers.

Central has done well against Andover during the Finneran Era, winning 11 of the last 14 Turkey Day games (one was cancelled by a snowstorm).

Rarely have six brothers from the same family excelled to the extent the Finnerans have — all in the same sport.

Most have also contributed greatly to the success of past CCHS wrestling, basketball, ice hockey and track teams as well.

Next Thursday will definitely be an emotional time for the entire Finneran clan, especially parents Tom and Maureen, who will undoubtedly continue to follow the series and attend future Thanksgiving Day games with a thousand memories flashing through their minds.

Swimmers end season at Championship Meet

WOMEN'S SWIMMING

By Rick Harrison

Jenna Blongiewicz placed among the top four in two events, and anchored a relay team that scored, leading the Andover High women's swim and dive team to an 11th place finish at the season-ending MIAA State Division I Championship Meet last weekend at Wellesley College.

Caroline Crocker completed the finest overall season in recent memory for an AHS one meter diver, the school record-holder placing fourth in her specialty.

Brenna O'Connor scored in two individual events, Meghan Donahue in one and both also swam legs on relay teams that picked up points.

Andover chalked up 52 points to beat 33 of the 44 schools that scored.

Acton-Boxboro once again won the team title with ease, capturing its sixth straight state Division I championship by piling up 247 points to easily out-distance runner-up Chelmsford.

Coach Marilyn Fitzgerald's Andover crew completed the 1996 campaign with an 8-3 overall dual meet record, finishing third in the Merrimack Valley Conference before placing fifth in the Eastern Mass. North Sectional Division I Meet.

Blongiewicz shines
Junior Jenna Blongiewicz placed third in the 100 yard backstroke and fourth in the 100 yard freestyle race.

Her personal-best 1:00.36 backstroke time came in a race that saw Melissa Lague of Notre Dame Academy and Salem, N.H. set a new state record (58.43).

Blongiewicz also clocked 55.10 on her way to touching fourth in the 100 free.

Sophomore Caroline Crocker, the MVC Division I champ and runner-up at the North Sectionals, finished with 343.20 points to place fourth in the state off the one meter board.

Distance ace Brenna O'Connor earned a ninth place in the 500-yard freestyle (5:27.50) and contributed a 12th place in the 200 freestyle (2:04.48).

Captain Meghan Donahue was 10th in the 100 yard butterfly (1:04.70).

Blongiewicz, O'Connor and Donahue all swam a leg on both the 11th place 400 freestyle relay team (3:59.10) and the 12th place 200 medley relay team (2:00.74).

Julie Ahern was the fourth swimmer on the 400 team and Alexis Casele completed the 200 medley quartet.

The top 12 finishers in each event scored points.

Caitlin Klick of Chelmsford was the only double winner in the meet while team titlist Acton-Boxboro, which swept first place in all three relay events, was led by sophomore Anna Fraser with a first and second place finish.

What a season for Lady Warriors track team

CROSS COUNTRY

By Rick Harrison

The 1996 Andover High women's cross country squad capped the finest season in the school's history by placing 11th in a 16-team field of qualifiers at last Saturday's MIAA All-State Division I Championship Meet held at the Northfield Recreation Center in Western Massachusetts.

Once again strong individual finishes by sophomore Kristin Munson and junior Katherine Blais enabled the Lady Warriors to make a solid showing.

Andover, 9-1 during the Merrimack Valley Conference dual meet season and fourth in the Eastern Mass. Division I Meet, finished with 293 points at Northfield-Mt. Hermon.

Newton North was the runaway team champ with 44 points, well ahead of second place Wachusett Regional of Holden with 135.

Mili Crisostomo of Milford was the individual winner, covering the rugged 3.1 mile course in 18:47.

The course is a tough one for runners to get any kind of rhythm going because the terrain changes every couple hundred yards.

more aggressive harriers but is hard on everyone.

Munson, 10th in the Eastern Mass. Division I Meet, was again the top AHS placer in 42nd with a 21:03 clocking.

Blais, 11th in the EMass. Meet, was again close behind as she crossed 46th in the 135-runner field with a 21:07 time.

Other scorers for coach Leo Lafond's squad were senior Captain Melissa Ying (70th, 21:45), freshman Mary Burbank (111th, 22:48) and senior Captain Abby Clarke (114th, 22:57).

Also competing for the Lady Warriors were seniors Meghan Woo (127th, 23:52) and Janine Givens (129th, 24:10).

Black Ice is in the forecast this weekend

Golfers, from the top PGA players to weekend duffers, may soon be crediting their sharper game and lower scores to technology provided by a company co-founded and managed by Andover resident Paul J. Durant.

Black Ice Golf Company Inc. of Woburn has developed a new high-tech ceramic club facing that should prolong the life of golf clubs and increase yardage off the tee.

The new facing, which recently received a ringing endorsement from pro golf's all-time leading money winner Raymond Floyd, will be on display at two upcoming events in the Merrimack Valley area.

This Saturday and Sunday (Nov. 23-24) Black Ice Golf will have a booth, where people can "demo" the new facing, at the Golf, Ski and Snowboard Expo '96 to be held at the new Valley Expo center off Rtes. 213 and 113 in Methuen.

The Expo will run from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

The following weekend, Nov. 29-Dec. 1, Black Ice will have a booth at the second annual Golf Show presented at Rockingham Park in Salem, N.H.

The Golf Show will run Friday and Saturday, Nov. 29-30, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 1 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Also hopping on the Black Ice bandwagon is hockey legend Bobby Orr, an avid linksman who has invested in the company and endorsed the new club facing which he uses.

Ray Floyd, winner of 12 Senior PGA Tour events, numerous regular PGA tournaments and close to $10 million in his illustrious career, has been experimenting with the Black Ice technology since last July.

"In my 30-plus years of playing professional golf, seldom have I seen anything that gives me the feel and the confidence that this facing does," said $10 million man Floyd. "My 'iced' irons have definitely helped my ball-striking."

"Having a player the caliber of Raymond Floyd believe in your product is one of the greatest compliments our company and Black Ice technology could receive," said Durant.

Black Ice Facing is a patent-pending, hard ceramic material added to the faces of metal woods, irons, putters and soon Persimmon woods. The facing is twice as hard as stainless steel and more than 60 percent harder than titanium.

The Black Ice technology greatly improves the hardness of the face, improving the wearability of new clubs and restoring both the play-ability and beauty of older clubs.

"I took a set of old irons that I particularly liked, but had literally worn out on the PGA tour," said the 54-year-old Floyd. "I had them 'iced' and they came back looking like new. They felt and played better than the set did originally."

Independent tests the company has commissioned since its founding 18 months ago indicated qualitatively, from a large cross section of golfers, that the new facing promotes better feel and sound off the clubhead when striking the ball.

"It translates into greater confidence and better ball-striking," explained Floyd.

Currently, said Durant, customers must ship the clubs to California, where the ceramic facing is applied and the clubs are returned within five days.

The company plans to open regional coating facilities, to be known as "Ice Houses," throughout the country and abroad as early as next year.

Several golf club manufacturers have also jumped on board.

Durant can be reached for further information about Black Ice Golf Company and its ceramic face treatment at 1-800-225-2538.

◀ Paul J. Durant of Andover (left) and Boston Bruins hockey legend Bobby Orr flank a booth similar to the one that will be set up at two area golf shows this month to demonstrate the effectiveness of a new high-tech ceramic golf club facing put out by Black Ice Golf Company, Inc. of Woburn. Mr. Durant is a co-founder and manager of the company, while Mr. Orr is an investor and proponent of the new facing, which he uses on his own golf clubs.

Finegold resigns, Wesson takes his place

Brian Major, Larry Larsen and Jim Fox are running; Sue Jenkins is considering running for the board

It was obvious the appointment was planned since it was on the agenda for the meeting, and Mr. Wesson, who has not been at a selectmen's meeting for at least several months, was at the meeting to the end, dressed in suit jacket and tie.

Brian Major

Susan Jenkins

James Fox

Chairman James Barenboim said the recommendation to appoint Mr. Wesson came out of a discussion he had with Selectman Gerald Silverman. Mr. Barenboim said it made sense because Mr. Wesson had run against Mr. Finegold, because he had experience on the board that would come in handy during the next few very busy months for the board, and because Mr. Wesson is not going to run for one of the open seats on the board in March.

"I have no plans to run," Mr. Wesson confirmed after the meeting.

Selectman Larry Larsen said Tuesday that it might have been more diplomatic to wait a week after Mr. Finegold's resignation before naming his replacement, but that Mr. Silverman was anxious to make the appointment. Dr. Larsen said he thought the process used to select and appoint Mr. Wesson was proper. And, he said, if selectmen don't have the right to call each other up individually, or to talk to one another individually face to face about such a decision, then there was a problem with the process.

Finegold gracious

In his remarks to the board Mr. Finegold was very gracious, as they were to him. Mr. Finegold said he and other members often disagreed on the issues, but that it never became personal.

"It's always been kept professional, and I thank you for that," Mr. Finegold said.

"Thank you and thank you to the people of Andover. I'm still working for you, just in a different capacity."

Mr. Barenboim made similar comments to Mr. Finegold, and after the meeting all the board members posed for pictures with Mr. Finegold.

"You never know," he may be president one day, Mr. Barenboim said.

Different choices

Voters at the election in March will have the option of voting for two selectmen for full three-year terms, and one selectman for a one-year term.

Mr. Barenboim has said he will not seek re-election in March. Dr. Larsen's term is also up, but he has said he will seek re-election. The one-year term will be to finish Mr. Finegold's term.

Major and Fox running

Brian Major is the first new candidate to announce his candidacy for the Board of Selectmen this March. He announced Monday. And Wednesday, James Fox, who this month lost his bid for state representative to Mr. Finegold, said he running. "Most likely I will run for Barry's unfulfilled, one-year term," Mr. Fox said. "I think I can make an effort and I think a one-year term will fit into my plans."

Mr. Major, 31, of 116 Woburn St., said Monday he will seek a seat on the board. He declined to get into the reasons he is running or any of the issues he will seek to address during the campaign or if elected. He may have more to say when he makes his official announcement at a party this Saturday, Nov. 23, at 10 a.m. at the home of Ted and Colleen Georgian, 11 Lovejoy Road.

Mr. Major is an adult member of the Andover Youth Council, and an engineer at Lucent Technologies, formerly AT&T, in North Andover. He and his wife, Margaret, discussed the pros and cons before making a decision, Mr. Major said.

"My wife and I have spent quite a lot of time talking about if that is the direction we want head in," Mr. Major said Monday. "We're both very excited about the opportunity."

Sue Jenkins may run

At least one other resident is thinking of joining Dr. Larsen, Mr. Major and Mr. Fox on the ballot.

"I'm thinking about it," former School Committee member Susan Jenkins said last month. Ms. Jenkins, of 15 West Parish Drive, said she would make up her mind "probably around Christmas."

Nomination papers for the March elections will be available in the town clerk's office after the first of the year.

Minimizing The Stress Of A Move

Buying or selling a home is among the top ten producers of stress. Moves are often associated with another major stressful situation, such as changing jobs or getting married or divorced.

The exchange of property is a complicated transaction, and there are a number of situations which can threaten a smooth transition. The appraiser could turn in a low figure or the title company could find a cloud on the title. The lender might get erroneous credit information, casting a doubt on the buyers' ability to qualify for the loan. And even though there is a meeting of the minds on price and terms, both sides may feel regret at some point during the negotiation. Any of these scenarios can be scary if you don't know how to handle them. Professional Realtors don't have a magic pill which will make the transaction a piece of cake, but their experience can steer you through any potential obstacles.

Before selecting a Realtor, call 1-888-FAX-2100 and ask for document #2020.

Feaster Five

Andover's
Thanksgiving Day
Road Race

ANDOVER
TOWNSMAN

November 21, 1996

Up to 7,000 expected to run, walk and roll

More than 4,000 participants had registered by last week for the ninth annual Thanksgiving Day Feaster Five Road Race, and entries continue to flow in. Race officials still are expecting nearly 7,000 runners to participate in this year's 5-mile, 5k and Kids 1k road races.

A record was set last year with 7,820 registered participants in the three events.

"I believe we will catch up these final few weeks," Dave McGillivray, race director, said last weekend.

Norma Gammon, chairwoman of the town's 350th Anniversary Committee, has been chosen to be the official starter for the race.

Start times

The Kids 1k fun run will start at 8 a.m., prior to the start of the 5-mile at 8:30 and 5k at 8:40. The start will again be on Main Street at Balmoral Street. The course is the same as last year. The kid's 1K is open to children 12 years old and younger. All children will receive a finish line gift upon completion of the event.

Registration

Registration and number pickup for all events will be held at Brickstone Office Park on York Street Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 25 and 26, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Wednesday, Nov. 27, from noon to 7 p.m. Registration will also take place race morning from 7 to 8:20 a.m. The entry fee is $18, or $5 for the Kids 1k.

The first 6,000 entrants will receive an official long-sleeve T-shirt, and all participants receive race packets, refreshments at the finish and, of course, the traditional apple pie.

For some local individuals and families, during the last nine years, running the Feaster has become a holiday tradition. The addition of the Kids K has built on that tradition, according to Mr. McGillivray.

Health & Fitness Expo

A complete health and fitness exposition is scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 27, from 3 to 8 p.m. in the cafeteria at 200 Brickstone Square. The public is invited free of charge.

Lazarus pledge program

The Feaster Five Road Race also benefits Lazarus House in Lawrence, a multi-service organization that assists the poor and needy in the Merrimack Valley. During October's flood, Lazarus House was one of the worst-hit places hit in the Merrimack Valley. With the help of the community, as well as FEMA, Lazarus House is still planning to give away 1,000-plus food baskets filled with a turkey and all the trimmings to local, needy families the night before Thanksgiving. They will also feed close to 900 people come Thanksgiving Day, and can use all the extra support and generosity they can get.

Runners are encouraged to raise pledges for Lazarus House. Runners are also encouraged to bring a pair of their old running shoes to donate to Lazarus House.

Volunteers

More than 600 volunteers will help out with the race.

"The race staff is busy for months doing all the behind the scenes work on the race. However, on race day, the control and impact of the race transfers into the hands of all the race volunteers. They are invaluable and are actually the image of the race that all the participants experience," said Mr. McGillivray.

Other activities

Once again this year, the race will be televised on ESPN's Saucony Running and Racing Show sometime in the beginning of December.

The largest Christmas tree in the nation will be at the finish line. The actual tree-lighting ceremony will take place Sunday, Dec. 1.

The Eagle-Tribune is the title sponsor of this year's race. The Townsmen is again a sponsor of the race, as are many other local and national businesses. [For a complete list of sponsors, see page 5A.]

The course

Both race courses are the same as last year. For details and course maps, see pages 4A and 5A.

The Feaster is now tradition for many residents

By Catherine Cannon

Originally from Austria, Luziana Gardener of South Main Street is running her seventh Feaster Five. At 67, she is a role model for people her age. Every morning at 5:30, Ms. Gardener swims at the YMCA and runs on the treadmill there. This dedication to exercise keeps her in great shape and makes her feel good, she said. Last year, Ms. Gardener raced the 5k in 26 minutes and captured first in her division. She says the Feaster Five serves as "an excellent cause for the poor and our community."

The Wrigley pack of nine is back again. Grandmother, Vickey Wrigley, 77, of Lowell Junction Road along with son, Russ, of Highland Road, his wife, Joan, and their sons, Steven, 25, and Dan, 22, are all running their seventh Feaster. And all the way from North Conway, N.H., to run in the Feaster is Ms. Wrigley's daughter, Joan Hickey, her husband, Bob, and their sons, Rob, 12, and Kyle, 11.

Since 1990, Lucille Benson of Timothy Drive has enthusiastically participated in the Feaster Five. As an Andover resident for 23 years, she says that, "The race is definitely a challenge since I am over 60." But that doesn't keep Ms. Benson from staying healthy and in great shape. Every day she walks five miles with her neighbors, Jean Depiana, Linda Saunder and Maryann Perry. Ms. Benson will be accompanied in the race by her niece, Pamela Feddon of Millpond in North Andover.

Joann Reed, 42, of Timothy Drive and her son, Michael, 12, are participating in their first Feaster ever. Typically the family is vacationing in sunny Florida for Thanksgiving, but this year their trip will be postponed until February, leaving the opportunity to race open. As an aerobic instructor at Silverado, Ms. Reed explains that her family is very physically fit. Michael attends seventh grade at Doherty Middle School. This year, each member of his class was assigned to set a goal for themselves. Michael's goal was clear - to run in the Feaster Five. He has been training with the Hundred Mile Club at school and runs with his mother once a week. "This is a great opportunity to do something fun and worthwhile together as mother and son," Ms. Reed says.

The Tebbetts family, of Wildwood Road, have walked the Feaster Five each year. Family members include, William, 49, his wife, Christine, 46, and their daughter, Erica, 14. "It is a great way to warm up for the rest of the fun Thanksgiving activities and enjoy the day," says Mr. Tebbetts.

"We're the water stop this year,"

says Carol Van Doren, of High Street.

She and her husband, Ed, and their 4-year-old twins, Ben and Molly, are taking part in the 5k race for their second time. Last year, along with friends Ray and Rachel Daniels, of Marie Drive, and the Daniels' kids, David, 4, and Becca, 2, they were the second-to-last finishers.

"This time I'm going to run real fast because I'm going to fly," says Ben. Molly planned to use a broom, from her Halloween costume, and also fly past everyone else. The children run the Kids 1k, then the parents put them all

Both courses go up at the start, drop (almost) to the finish line

For the third year in a row, there are no changes to either the 5k (3.1 mile) or 5-mile (8k) Feaster Five courses this year.

The Kids 1k will again begin at 8 a.m. at Brickstone Square. The 5k starts at 8:30 a.m. on North Main Street at Balmoral Street, followed 10 minutes later, at 8:40, by the 5-miler. The wide start area on North Main will allow those up front to start quickly, but those in the back will have it slow going for the first half mile or so due to the crowd.

Timing and Water

Timing splits will be given at the mile markers.

Water stations will be just prior to the 1½ mile point on the 5k, on High Street just before the downhill to Harding Street; in front of the Townsman building just before the 2-mile mark on the 5-miler; and on Maple Street, just before the 3-mile marker.

Sights along the way

Lazarus House staff will have signs and music at all intersections and will assist with traffic. There will be three disc jockeys and three Dixieland bands along the course.

The 5k (3.1 mile) course

Heading south, the first half mile is relatively flat, crossing over the Shawshen River, past Shawshen Plaza and through the lights at Stevens Street. The next half mile is the longest uphill on the course. It finally levels off at Elm Square, just past the mile mark, and from there it's clear sailing.

The 5k course takes a left on Elm Street and a quick left on High Street. Be careful here as the 5-mile runners will continue straight on Main Street.

After a short downhill the course is mostly flat along High Street, past the 2-mile marker and out to Haverhill Street, where runners turn left for a fast downhill stretch, go under the railroad bridge then right onto York Street for a short, straight uphill finish.

The 5k runners must stay to the left of the cones on High, Haverhill and York streets. Many of the 5k runners, those who will run eight-minute miles or slower, may see the 5-mile leaders pass them on the right along High Street and all the way to the finish.

The 5k runners should also be sure to continue straight into their finish line, and not turn left toward the buildings and into the 5-mile finish chute.

The 8k (5-mile) course

The 8k is the same as the 5k course for the first mile to the top of the hill at Elm Square. There, the 5k runners will take a left on Elm Street while the 5-mile course continues straight on Main Street through town.

Just as the gradual uphill begins heading out of town, the course goes left on Morton Street for one block before making a fast, left downhill turn onto Bartlet Street. A few blocks later, at the Townsman building, go right onto Chestnut Street past the 2-mile marker and continue straight for a short distance before turning left onto Pasho Street.

From there, follow the 5k course, except 5-mile runners will stay to the right of the cones all the way in. High Street is mostly flat out to a left on Haverhill Street, which begins a fast downhill that continues almost to the finish.

After the railroad bridge turn right up the hill on York Street to the finish lines in the Marshalls parking lot. Women stay to the right coming up the hill and turn right into the first chute. Men stay straight past the first chute and take the second right to that chute.

Training runs

The last organized training run will be held this Saturday morning at 8:15 a.m. leaving from the Athlete's Corner store on Main Street. The run will cover the entire 5-mile course.

Parking and traffic

Parking will be available at Shawshen Plaza on North Main Street (a half mile from the start on the course), at Doctors Park on Haverhill Street, (on the course about a half mile from the finish), and at Brickstone Square.

Andover police will handle traffic at all major intersections, but there will be detours and delays, and those who live along the route should plan ahead, according to Bill Pennington, co-race director.

Who's running?

in double strollers and push them along in the 5k. Ms. Van Doren said she hoped the Daniels would be joining them again this year.

"We'll try not to be last this year," she said, then thought about it and said maybe they'd try for last instead.

This year, the 5k water stop is in front of the Van Dorens' house, on High Street between Temple Place and Harding Street.

Father and son James and Greg Foltz are ready for their fourth Feaster. James Foltz, 48, of Countryside Way, runs regularly to stay in great shape. His son, Greg, 19, a sophomore at Colby College in Maine, was a track runner in high school and has been doing his best to stay trained for the Feaster. For the most part, the race is just for fun, but this year, Kay Foltz shares that Greg is in it to beat his father. Now that's an incentive!

Maria Shapiro, 47, of Haggetts Pond Road, and her family moved to Andover in 1993 with the incentive of starting a new Thanksgiving tradition. Since then, she and her husband, Robert Sr., 50, daughter, Maria, 20, and son, Robert Jr., 23, have been involved with the Feaster festivities. This year Ms. Shapiro, who attends NYU, has encouraged her former roommate, Kasia Lubowicz, 20, from Warsaw, Poland, and her sister, Ainya, 23, to join in the family tradition. Ms. Lubowicz now attends Harvard University on a full scholarship and will have the opportunity to experience her first Thanksgiving with the Shapiro family. Robert Jr. is a graduate student at Fitchburg State. His wife, Colleen, also at Fitchburg State, will also be participating in the morning's activities.

The family enjoys the racing with a brisk walk that breaks into a jog now and then. Maria Shapiro believes that the Feaster "is a fun way to begin Thanksgiving and the traditional turkey dinner. 'I would recommend it to anyone.' Ms. Shapiro and her family are hoping that their relative, Angela Hryckiewicz, from Woodridge, N.J., will be able to participate in the Thanksgiving events, as she has in years past, but she is currently undergoing chemotherapy.

Eight-year-old Alexander Ortstein of High Street is thoroughly motivated to be running his first Feaster Five 5k race. Last year, Alexander participated in the Kids 1k but now is ready for a bigger challenge. He participates in Tai Kwon Do, which required him to run 3 miles for the black belt exam, and he passed successfully. Alexander's mother, Laurie Ortstein, who works at Academy Manor nursing home, admits she was a little hesitant about allowing her son to sign up for the 3-mile race by himself. However, she says that "Alexander is highly motivated and wants to prove that he can do this." Currently he is a second grader in the multi-

'Noooo. I don't think so.'

Jane Russo, when asked if she'd be joining her son, Charlie, in the 5-mile race age program at Bancroft School. Alexander has ambitious hopes of running the entire 5 miles for next year's Feaster.

Ellen Christopher, 39, of Lovejoy Road, her sons, Andrew, 10, and Jake, 12, and daughter, Sarah, 9, are all back for their fourth Feaster Five. All of the children play hockey with the Andover Hockey Association's traveling teams.

In the fall, Jake, who attends the West Middle School, participated on Andover's football team while his brother and sister, both students at Sanborn School, were involved with soccer. Jake will be running the full 5 miles accompanied by his good friend, Jonathan Swift. Ms. Christopher says, "It's a nice way to spend Thanksgiving."

She will also be running the 5-miler with Jake, and has been keeping in shape by running during the week.

Mark Collins, 47, of Pioneer Circle, and his sons, Todd, 18, and Chad, 20, are trained and ready for their fourth year racing in the Feaster Five. As a captain of the Andover High School cross country team, Todd impressively placed thirty-ninth in the recent state competition for his team. His father says this year Todd is serious about competitively racing for place and an improved time. Mr. Collins has kept both his sons times from previous races in order to see their progress over the years. Chad is returning from Salem State to run with old high school friends and enjoy Thanksgiving with his family.

Charlie Russo, a first-year student at Syracuse University and former Andover High cross-country runner, will be back to run the 5-miler, according to his mother, Jane Russo, of 8 Windemere Drive. Ms. Russo said her son has run the 5k in the past. But she won't be joining him.

"Noooo. I don't think so," she said.

Andrew Fzendey, 36, of Marilyn Road, is running his third Feaster this year. He has dedicated himself to running 10-12 miles a week to stay in shape and be prepared for this year's competition. As an AVIS member, Mr. Fzendey, has used AVIS's guide, which delineates many of Andover's cross country trails, and has run all of the 25-plus trails listed. Over the years, he has donated sneakers along with his cash contributions for the Feaster Five.

As president of the company social club at ISI Systems, Mr. Fzendey has also encouraged his co-workers to donate to Lazarus House, especially since the shelter was damaged by the recent flooding. More than $1,500 is estimated to be collected for Lazarus House at ISI Systems between its corporate board, the social club and the employees.

Snow, rain, frozen water stops all part of past Feasters

Although race organizers are still expecting about 7,000 runners to take part in this year's Feaster Five Road Race, this might be the first year the crowd doesn't break the previous year's record. Entries jumped by more than 1,000 last year, from 6,696 to 7,820, and that kind of growth has been typical from the beginning of this race.

1988

Roughly 400 runners competed in the first Feaster Five, held on Thanksgiving Day in 1988. The race started and finished at the Park on Bartlet Street and was an out-and-back course, looping through the Blueberry Hill subdivision off Holt Road.

Ken Pliska was the first winner of the race with Amy Legacki, of Boxford, taking the top spot for women.

The second Feaster Five was the most infamous, as a New England blizzard had dumped six inches of snow on the course by race time.

Ken Mahony, town manager at the time, almost stopped the race in fear for the runners' safety, but convinced that the runners would go out and run anyway, he let the race go on.

Four hundred participants ran through near-white-out conditions. Sam Hilario, of Lawrence, and Nancy Corsaro, of Methuen, skied and skated across the finish line for the top honors.

1990

In 1990, nearly 2,000 runners competed, a significant increase in entrants over the first two Feaster Five races. Race officials attributed the tremendous increase to decent weather and the decision to give free apple pies to the last 1,000 runners instead of the top finishers.

The fourth annual Feaster Five, in 1991, featured the same course as in 1992, but had dry weather and temperatures in the 40s.

Nearly 3,000 runners competed, with world-class marathoner Julie Peterson taking first place in the women's division. Guy Sterns won the men's competition, crossing the finish line just four seconds ahead of Dan Dillon, for the closest finish to that point among overall winners at the Feaster Five.

The weather was much more cooperative in 1992, at least for the runners, most of whom appreciated the light rain and 40-degree temperatures.

"Not very good for walkers and spectators," said Bill Pennington, co-director of the race. "But it was ideal for runners."

Three course records were set as more than 3,000 runners competed, including Johnny Kelley, the well-loved 87-year-old marathon great whose original oil paintings were given as prizes to the top men's and women's open finishers.

The course began at the intersection of Main and Chestnut streets that year, wound around Phillips Academy and down Salem Street to Route 125, then back to the finish line in front of the town offices.

1993

Temperatures were well below freezing in '93, causing the water at the water stops to turn to slush in the cups and ice to form on the roads where the water spilled. Despite the cold weather, more than 4,000 completed it. The route was similar to the current one, only it ran in reverse direction. And instead of starting on North Main Street, the start was at Brickstone Square.

Following the race, a check for $25,000 was presented to Lazarus House, exceeding the goal set by race directors. This was the most money raised in a Feaster Five event to date.

Despite temps again hovering around 20 degrees at the start in '94, a record 6,696 participants came out for the race, making it New England's fifth largest. The course was the same as this year and last year.

George Yiannelis and Lisa Senatore took first places in the 5 miler with Senatore edging out Olympic gold medalist Joan Benoit Samuelson by just 21 seconds for her win. In the masters race, Andy Palmer out-kicked four-time Boston Marathon winner Bill Rodgers for a one second victory. Susan Aronovitz took the women's race. Tommy Lynch and Mary Donohue took the 5k in 15:58 and 19:05 respectively. Almost $20,000 was raised for Lazarus House.

George Yiannelis of Medford ran third for the first 4.8 miles of the 5-miler last year before overtaking Dave Dunham (24:08) and Joe Rocha (24:10) on York Street to grab first in 24:07. It was Yiannelis' second consecutive win in the race. Olympic gold medalist and former Boston Marathon winner Joan Benoit Samuelson took first woman in 27:39, 17 seconds ahead of Kara Molloy of Lowell (27:56) and Julie Peterson of Beverly (28:21). Terriane McGettrick of Andover (29:40) was fifth woman and 92nd overall.

Marathon great Bill Rogers took first master (25:42) just ahead of John Goodwin of Andover (26:28). Susan Maslowski, 43, of Billerica, was first woman in 33:18. Margot Remington-Oman, of Andover was third (34:01). Brian White of Haverhill was first wheelchair finisher (29:05).

In the 5k, Michael Cronin of Ipswich took first male (16:41) and Mary Donahue, of Ayer was first female in 18:20.

Of the 7,782 participants, 4,950 did the 5-miler, 2,301 the 5k, and 569 the Kids 1k. The weather started out cool but above freezing with clearing skies, but the wind picked up and cooled it down noticeably by the finish.
